SEVERAL HURT IN TWO STREET CAR ACCIDENTS

TUTTLE ASKED TO ARBITRATE STRIKE

William D. Mahon, international president of the Car Men's Union, proposed today in behalf of the striking employes of the Boston Elevated that the whole controversy be left for settlement to Lucius Tuttle, formerly president of the Boston & Maine Railroad. The strikers will abide by any decision Mr. Tuttle might make.

Mr. Tuttle said when told of the proposal: "I would have nothing whatever to do with the case under any circumstances."

President William A. Bancroft of the Boston Elevated said: "I have received no such offer. When I do, I shall make a statement."

Policeman Barely Escapes Being Crushed at Corner of Washington and Summer Streets; Prisoner Is Held in $5,000 Bail.

A number of people were shaken up and injured today in two accidents on the Elevated surface lines, due to green motormen.

The first accident occurred on Washington and Summer streets, during the morning down town rush. The second accident took place in Drochester.

Carlin Kruse of No. 18 Lambert street, Roxbury, was crushed between two electric cars while crossing Park street, near Fields Corner, at 10 a. m. He was rushed to the City Hospital in the Boston Elevated Company's ambulance. All attempts to find out about the extent of his injuries were of no avail.

The motorman operating the car that struck Krause gave his name of Everett E. Gilman of No. 22 East street. The conductor of the other car was James Douglas of No. 318 East One Hundred and Eighty-fourth street, New York. The cars were running about five feet apart.

Caught on Fender.

Kruse apparently did not realize how close the cars were. Before he knew what had happened he was caught on the fender of one car and crushed between the two cars. The cars sprang apart, releasing Kruse momentarily. Then they banged together again, bruising the man still more.

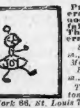
'TIDAL WAVE' SWEEPS THROUGH CANON AND MANY ARE DROWNED

SHERIDAN, Wyo., June 12.—Many persons are reported to have been drowned by a "tidal wave" of water which swept down Clear Creek canon early today, overwhelming Buffalo, a village of 2,000 souls. While only a few blocks wide, on account of the narrowness of the canon, Buffalo is over a mile long. The telephone operator at Buffalo reported a wall of water sweeping down the canon 25 feet high. At that point the wires went down.

THE WEATHER.



Probably showers this afternoon or tonight; fair and cooler Thursday; moderate west winds.

Sun rises 4:07 a. m., sets 7:21 p. m. Moon rises 1:51 a.m. High tide 8:30 a. m., 9:00 p. m. Temperatures: Boston 68, Chicago 62, New York 66, St. Louis 70, Los Angeles 58.

STOMACH-RITE CURES INDIGESTION, dyspepsia and constipation.

HOUSE VOTES TO ELECTRIFY

Electrification of steam railroads in metropolitan Boston, but no tunnel between North and South stations, was voted overwhelmingly by the House of Representatives today. The bill presented by the Joint House Committee on Railroads and Metropolitan Affairs, was accepted in its entirety and the new railroad bill was passed to be engrossed and sent to the Senate.

The bill enlarges the powers of the railroad commissioners, beside providing for electrification, and gives the Supreme Court jurisdiction in equity to enforce compliance with the orders of the railroad committee. An attempt was made to incorporate in the bill the Governor's suggestion for a public transportation board of five members.

TROLLEY MERGER KILLED

The Massachusetts Senate today killed the plan of the New Haven Railroad to merge all of the trolley railways of Massachusetts. This was done by a vote which failed to pass the bill over the veto of Governor Foss.

The vote in the Senate today was as follows:

In favor of passing the bill over the Governor's veto, 23.

Against passing the bill over the Governor's veto, 16.

It required a two-thirds vote, or 26, to pass the bill over the veto of Governor Foss.

The House had yesterday passed the bill over the veto of the Governor with the help of forty-one Democrats. When the bill came to the Senate it was held up until today—for reasons that have not yet been made clear.

When the matter came before the Senate today every member was recorded with the exception of President Greenwood. He does not vote usually unless there is a tie.

Seven Democrats Vote for Bill.

When the vote was over it found that seven Democrats had joined with sixteen Republicans to pass the legislation in spite of the Governor.

The debate was one of the hottest ever heard on Beacon Hill. It was openly charged that lobbyists tried to pass the legislation over the Governor's head. Senator Schoefield, in his speech, said:

"There is no question but that members of this body were urged by certain persons not connected with this body to vote for the passage of this pill over the Governor's head. The activities of the lobby on this measure are generally known to Senators who kept their eyes open."

Here Is the Vote.

Here are the Senators who voted to pass the bill over the Governor's veto:

Democrats—Burke, Milford; Grainger, Winthrop; Hunt, Worcester; Joyce, Boston; Mack, North Adams; Powers, Boston; Timility, Boston.

Republicans—Adams, Marblehead; Blanchard, Somerville; Chace, Dighton; Clark, Brockton; Coolidge, Northampton; Denny, Worcester; Eldridge, Yarmouth; Hersey, Hingham; Mulligan, Natick; Nason, Haverhill; Newhall, Lynn; Pearson, Brookline; Ross, New Bedford; Schoonmaker, Ware; Wheeler, Hubbardston.

Democrats: Halley, Lawrence; Hatton, Charlwestown; Horgan, Dorchester; Lomasney, Boston; McCarthy, Marlboro; Quigley, Holyoke; Schofield, Ipswich.

Lobbyists Out in Force

With lobbyists for the New Haven Railroad filling the corridors of the State House the State Senate debated for three hours the trolley merger bill.

The question was on passing the bill over the Governor's veto. The bill permits the New Haven Railroad to acquire direct control of all the street railway lines in western Massachusetts from the New York State line to Worcester.

Debate on the measure was opened in the Senate by Senator Charles H. Brown of Medford, a Republican, who opposed the bill and urged that he Governor's veto be sustained.

"The action of this branch of the Legislature yesterday, he said, "was the rawest I have seen in my six years experience in the Legislature and I have witnessed some pretty stiff railroad fights in that time.

"In the last twenty-four hours pressure from political and social friends have been brought to bear upon the members of this Senate to vote to pass this bill over the Governor's veto.

HARVARD AUTOISTS IN CRASH

An automobile containing several Harvard students crashed into a slowly moving freight train on the Salem-Lowell branch of the Boston & Maine Railroad at West Peabody grade crossing early today. James Greenough, Jr., of No. 14 Appian way, Cambridge, a freshman at Harvard, was thrown under the train. He started desperately to crawl out, but his left foot was nipped by one of the car wheels so badly that it was later amputated at the ankle by surgeons of the Thomas Hospital in Peabody.

The other youths in the car, including a son of William D. Mandell of No. 46 Fenway, Boston, who was driving, were thrown out and were bruised. But the terrible injury to young Greenough, who is made a cripple for life, was the most serious harm sustained.

The car which hit the freight was the first of a string of four proceeding along the Newburyport turnpike. The collegiate autoists had been to Ferncroft Inn.

The turnpike crosses at grade the Georgetown branch tracks of the Boston & Maine and a little farther on the tracks of the Salem-Lowell branch.

Young Mandell, driving the first auto, crossed the Georgetown branch tracks safely and thought he was clear of railroad tracks for a while.

Before he could stop the car the freight train loomed up in front of him on the next crossing, with the crash following almost instantly. Only the slow rate at which the freight was traveling saved the party from more general injuries.

James Greenough, Jr., sitting on the front seat, was thrown feet first under one of the cars. He started, almost as soon as he struck the ground, to crawl out, but just missed getting clear of the slowly moving car wheel. The lower part of his foot was crushed, causing him piercing agony.

The autos following were stopped in time. The freight train halted. Young Greenough was put on a stretcher taken from the freight caboose. This was lifted into one of the automobiles, and, attended by some of the party, Greenough was rushed to the Thomas Hospital in Peabody. A telephone message was sent to his uncle, Dr. Robert Greenough of the Massachusetts General Hospital, who made a fast auto run to Peabody to attend his nephew. It was necessary to amputate the youth's left foot at the ankle.

Word was also sent to William D. Mandell at his Summer home in Cohasset. Mr. Mandell came to Peabody at high speed by auto.

The other boys in the first car, suffering from bruises, were taken to Cambridge in the other cars and received treatment in the Stillman Infirmary.

Every effort was made in Peabody to keep the names of the collegians and the details of the accident from being published.

POSTAL CLERK IS JAILED, ACCUSED OF RIFLING POUCHES

Postoffice Inspectors Jennings and Sharpe today arrested Roscoe B. Jewett, a clerk in the registry mail division of the main postoffice, on the charge of rifling pouches containing registered matter. The inspectors announced that Jewett had confessed. He was taken to Station 2 to await arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Hayes.

Jewett is about forty years old and was appointed to the position in the registry division October 1, 1908. He is unmarried and lives at Grenville street, Dorchester.

Earthquake Shocks Recorded at Harvard

Tremors Noted From 7:50 Until 8:30 O'Clock—Believed of Alaskan Origin.

Earth tremors, lasting from 7:50 until 8:30 o'clock today, were recorded by the seismograph at Harvard University. The shock was the heaviest at 7:59.

The disturbances noted on the instruments at Harvard are believed to be of the same origin as those that have been recorded since the Alaska volcanic disturbances, but there is no positive way of determining the exact location of the shocks.

The seismograph at Georgetown University, Washington, also noted these earthquakes, and they coincided with those recorded at Harvard.

STRIKE TIES UP FIVE FRENCH PORTS

HAVRE, June 12.—With marine traffic entirely suspended at this port and partially paralyzed in four others, the strike of the French seamen and firemen is swiftly assuming a national aspect. The cooks and stewards are now threatening to join the walk-out if Marine Minister Delcasse carries out his program of equipping passenger and mail carrying ships with sailors from French men-of-war. Tourists who came here to sail have left, some returning to Paris and others to Cherbourg to sail on liners that are still enabled to run.

TWO REPORTED KILLED IN WRECK ON SOUTHERN ROAD

ATLANTA, Ga., June 12.—Two persons were killed and fifty passengers and members of the train crew were seriously injured when an excursion train on the Western & Atlanta Railroad was wrecked today. Several hundred people were aboard the train, which was bound from Atlanta to Chattanooga. The cause of the accident is unknown at present, but it is thought to have been caused by the forward trucks of one of the coaches jumping the track.

65 STUDENTS IN PEANUT STRIKE

WATERVILLE, Me., June 12.—The sixty-five boys and girls composing the high school junior class went on strike when the school board announced that no junior who participated in the "peanut drunk" of last Thursday will be allowed to take final examinations.

The seniors celebrated last week Monday by "hanging Virgil." Wednesday the sophomore "burned Ceasar," whose classic text had worried them for the past year. Thursday night the juniors "buried Cicero." During the celebration the school was entered. Desks were overturned and other damage was done, so that the incident has since been styled the "peanut drunk."

The juniors later assumed responsibility for the trouble. Half of the class admitted being present. All admitting this were told they canot take the final examinations. Then the entire class struck by walking out of school. President Raymond Rogers of the juniors has appealed to the State Superintendent of Schools at Augusta.

MILLER AND MOTLEY ARRESTED ON LINER

NEW YORK, June 12.—Two police lieutenants met the Kron Prinz Wilhelm when she arrived today and arrested Clark A. Miller and Alfred H. Motley, Jr., upon the charge of grand larceny of $100,000 from the United States Lithograph Company. They were arrested in London, but were discharged May 31 on the ground that the proper extradition papers had not been sent from this country to England. Immediately after their release the two men left for America to fight their cases without extradition papers.

BOMB KILLS TWO AT LISBON GATHERING

LISBON, June 12.—A bomb was thrown into a political meeting of republican officers and civilians at Port Alegel today, killing two and injuring six. Royalists are accused of the outrage.

ROOSEVELT WINS ONE OUT OF 108 CONTESTS; ARIZONA DELEGATES VOTED TO PRESIDENT

Taft Leaders Are Alarmed for Fear the Men Already Seated May Switch to Roosevelt; Barnes and His Ninety Men Looming Larger in the Situation; Begin on the California Contests.

CHICAGO, June 12.—The Taft men were seated in the California contest.

CHICAGO, June 12.—The Taft steam roller was sent ahead at full speed today and six gentlemen from Arizona, who represented the Roosevelt following in the infant State, were flattened out quickly.

The six delegates-at-large—the whole Arizona State delegation—were seated for President Taft by the Republican National Committee. This left the score: Taft 107, Roosevelt 1. The decision was reached after the Taft men had submitted evidence showing their delegates were elected by the "regular" convention and that the Roosevelt delegates to the Arizona State convention did not even present their credentials to the convention's credentials committee. The Roosevelt delegation was elected at a bolting convention.

When the arguments had been presented, Neville Saunders of Washington moved to seat the delegates. Senator Borah of Idaho presented a substitute motion to seat the Roosevelt delegates. He demanded a roll call. Only eighteen men stood up. The motion was lost on a viva voce vote. The Saunders motion was then carried by a viva voce vote. All attempt to get a roll call failed.

The contest in the Fourth California District was then called for hearing.

With 101 delegates given to Taft and one to Roosevelt, there remains contests involving 132 delegates.

Fear delegates already seated for Taft might shift to Roosevelt; fear of a dark horse, fear of a delegate stampede, which might be started with the Roosevelt mass meeting scheduled for Friday night, projected William J. Barnes, Jr., of New York into the centre of the political stage. Barnes heads the New York delegation of ninety. Roosevelt men have claimed they would get a large slice of these votes. Where they eventually go is about the most important factor in the situation.

Night Sessions Next

The Committee went into session at 9:20 o'clock, an hour earlier than usual. The slow progress made in hearing the contests was the reason for the early start. Facing the Louisiana contests, the committee has declared for night sessions.

Leaders of the Taft and Roosevelt factions want no compromise. But there are others—and there are a lot of them—who begin to view with favor the idea of a compromise candidate. Walter L. Houser, leader of the La Follette forces, who has arrived and controls thirty-six delegates, is helping the idea along.

Several delegates who were seated by the committee have expressed sentiments not quite so pro-Taft as their leaders desire. Some of them are big men. It has worried the Taft campaigners. Should the infection spread to the New York delegation, which is largely anti-Roosevelt rather than pro-Taft, and should the delegates from the Empire State cast even a slice of their votes for a third candidate on the ballot, real trouble would begin. The Taft men are banking on a first ballot nomination.

Taft Wins Arizona Men.

Contests in Arizona were called first. The cases were put over on the first day the committee met and it was understood they would go to the bottom of the list. In Arizona two sets of delegates were elected. The Taft men were seated.

Before the Arizona contests were taken up, ex-Senator Charles Dick, representing Taft in the contests, tried to reopen the eleventh Kentucky fight. He was dissatisfied because only one Taft delegate was seated. Chairman Rosewater informed him the only way in which they could be taken up was by unanimous consent. There was objection and the subject was dropped. It will probably be taken up before the credentials committee.

President Taft leads Colonel Roosevelt by a bare score of votes in the race for the Republican nomination. Neither President nor ex-President has a safe majority yet of the delegates required to nominate.

Taft 487½ and Roosevelt 468½ gives a conservative estimate of the standing of the two leading candidates. Both claim sufficient votes to nominate.

United States Senator Crane, field marshal for President Taft in the national committee, believes that the President will have a majority of only twenty-seven votes on the first ballot.

Chairman Barnes of New York believes that the test vote for chairman of the convention will elect Elihu Root by fifty votes and that Roosevelt will be defeated by about seventy.

Roosevelt claims from those of his own inner circle, those who know figures and what they mean, are for a close vote and a bare majority for the Colonel on the first ballot.

One solitary delegate awarded Colonel Roosevelt by the Republican National Committee to 107 given President Taft represents what the steam roller has accomplished since the committee began its sessions on contests. Nevertheless the Roosevelt camp feels encouraged.

The bitter assaults of Colonel Roosevelt and his lieutenants upon the Taft leaders are treated with utter indifference.

The decision on Kentucky riled the Roosevelt supporter fully as much as the judgment meted out on the cases from Indiana. The one delegate given Roosevelt is regarded almost as a gift. The lucky man is D. C. Edwards from the Eleventh Kentucky district.

Late Split Victory.

The Taft forces on the committee refused by a vote of thirty-three to nineteen to seat both of the Roosevelt delegates whose places were contested, but agreed to a split which gave Colonel Roosevelt and President Taft each one delegate from the district.

The half victory for Colonel Roosevelt came at the end of a day in which all of the other much-discussed contests from Kentucky had been decided in President Taft's favor.

In some of these the Roosevelt men had acquiesced; in others they had mustered a vote of from 11 to 17 against the Taft decisions.

Senator Crane of Massachusetts, the leading Taft figure in the National Committee, is given the credit for keeping the machine in line for Taft, and is hourly assailed by the supporters of Roosevelt.

Will Raise Cry of Fraud.

The charge of fraud has been directly hurled at the junior senator from Massachusetts. Senator Dixon, raging over Kentucky decisions, said:

> Penrose, Crane and other Taft bosses controlling the National Committee gave formal approval to the infamous frauds perpetrated upon the Republicans of Kentucky by the Taft managers in that State.
>
> Mr. Kellogg, added Senator Dixon, a Roosevelt National Committeeman from Minnesota, after the presentation of the case, brought out by a careful analysis of the facts the flagrancy and extent of the frauds.
>
> He proved mathematically from evidence that was not refuted that the Roosevelt men honestly controlled the State convention.
>
> Yet, in the face of these facts, Penrose, Crane and other Taft committeemen seated all of the Taft delegates from Kentucky and did it on the ground that their credentials were regular on their face.

Pinchot Talks of Steal.

Gifford Pinchot, former forester, says that unless there is a steal Roosevelt will win the nomination. He said today:

> Here in Chicago one of two things will happen. If the Taft majority in the National Committee abandons its determination to steal the nomination Roosevelt will win; if the National Committee persists in the effort to steal, its dishonesty will be repudiated by the National Convention and Roosevelt will win. I am well pleased with the position of our fight.

Roosevelt leaders announce details of a mass meeting for Friday afternoon which will be staged at Chicago's largest theatre as a spectacular preliminary to the opening of the convention next Tuesday.

The principal addresses at the meeting will be delivered by Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver and Francis J. Heney of San Francisco.

Lay Out Two Chicago Days, But Dare Plan No More

CHICAGO, June 12.—The subcommittee of arrangements for the Republican National Convention has framed a program for the first two days. After that they don't dare venture. No one knows what will happen on the third day. Here is the program as far as it could be fixed today:

Tuesday, June 18.—Convention called to order at noon. Prayer by chaplain.

Presentation of gavel to chairman of the National Convention.

Reading of convention call by Secretary Hayward.

Address of temporary chairman.

Presentation of gavel to temporary chairman.

Election of temporary officers.

Naming of committees on permanent organization; rules and order of business; credentials; resolutions.

Miscellaneous business.

Wednesday, June 19—Call to order by temporary chairman.

Prayer by chaplain.

Report of Committee on Credentials.

If this is not ready, visiting marching clubs will be received.

After acting on credentials report, reports of following committees will be received: Permanent organization; rules and order of business; resolutions, selection of honorary vice-presidents.

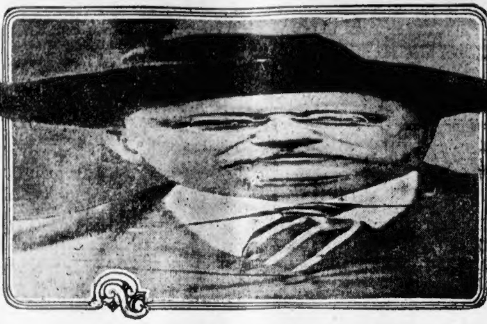
ROOSEVELT STEAM-ROLLED



HUMOROUS SIDELIGHTS ON HUMAN SIDE OF CHICAGO CONVENTION

CHICAGO, June 12.—And now it is the city of Chicago that is after the steam-roller—as if Colonel Roosevelt had not tried hard enough to sift sand in its gear boxes. Colonel Harry S. New has received this letter from Henry A. Zender, president of the Board of Examining Engineers.

> Dear Sir—It has been brought to the attention of this board that you contemplate operating a steam-roller in connection with your convention. We desire to call your attention to the fact that it is a violation of the city ordinances to operate a steam-roller with an unlicensed engineer in Chicago, and we request that you have your operator appear at this office for examination. I also beg to inform you that the business agent for the steam roller engineers is on your trail and threatens to call a sympathetic strike of the delegates unless your operator joins the union.

BILL BARNES—"BAD MAN."

A cub reporter who had been assigned to interview Bill Barnes found his way to the room of the New York "Boss." The door was open and Bill and his secretary were going over the morning mail. The reporter stood on the threshold for a minute with his hat in his hand and then asked: "Can you tell me when Mr. Barnes will be in?"

"Do you mean Bill Barnes, that bad man from New York?" inquired the boss."

"Yes, that's the man," replied the reporter.

"Well, you'll find him in this room, after 6 tonight, said Bill. "He'll have a red hot interview. If I were you I'd wait for it."

Nobody knows how Barnes knew the young fellow worked on an afternoon newspaper.

DAVE MULVANE'S CONSCIENCE

Arthur I. Vorys of Ohio tells this story of "Dave" Mulvane of Kansas:

"Just before I left home a friend wanted to know about all these steam-roller charges. I told him they were all bunk, and that the members of the committee decided all cases absolutely on their judgment and upon their conscience.

" 'Well, I guess, perhaps you do,' he said, 'but isn't Dave Mulvane on that committee?' I said he was. 'Well,' he answered, 'I've known Dave twenty years, and I suppose he has a conscience like other men, but he has it under full control.' "

"SUFFRAGE—THE IDEA!"

Metropolitan newspaper methods have proved intensely interesting to all of the women attending the National Convention—to all except Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg, the wife of the National Committeeman from Minnesota. A delegation of newspaper reporters called on Mrs. Kellogg as a matter of routine. She met them at the door, and there was something in her eye which led the reporters to believe that the last newspaper man who called had stolen the doormat.

Finally, courage tuned to the right pitch, one unfortunate blurted out:

"Mrs. Kellogg, how do you stand on woman suffrage?"

DR. GREEN OUT OF THE HOSPITAL

Dr. Samuel A. Green, ex-Mayor of Boston, who has been at the Boston City Hospital since March 27, as a result of being struck by a cab, left that institution shortly after noon today for his home in Groton. His life was despaired of several times, but he rallied and has now improved to such an extent that he decided to go home.

At his own request Dr. Green was confined to the children's ward, where he could be with the little folks. There was great sorrow among the little ones at his departure.

Ex-Mayor Green was knocked down by a cab on March 27 while crossing Washington street, near Kneeland, receiving a broken leg and rib and suffering internal injuries. With his great age of eighty-two years but little hope was held out for his recovery. For many weeks he hovered between life and death.

FAVOR MORE PAY FOR PUBLIC WORKS MEN

Asking an increase in pay of fifty cents a day, about forty inspectors employed in the street cleaning and sanitary divisions of the Public Works Department yesterday called on Mayor Fitzgerald. The wages of inspectors in the above divisions varies from $2.50 to $3 a day. The Mayor referred the matter to Commissioner Rourke, who later informed the Mayor that he considered the request reasonable and said the amount to meet such an increase, if made, would not exceed $6,000 a year.

He dislikes to be reminded of his former life. He has been in Argentina for a year and is here as a financier, promoting a trans-Andean railroad. He returns to Argentina in a fortnight.

CUT AWAY BRIDGE TO RELEASE BARGE

The Lehigh Valley Railroad barge No. 742, that became stuck in the Granite avenue drawbridge Monday, succeeded in getting through and is now anchored in the harbor. The barge, which had seemingly grown since delivering a load of coal at Milton, was four inches too wide for the draw, and it was found necessary to take away part of the bridge.

The Home Paper of Boston

GANG ATTACKS POLICEMAN

Patrolman Edward J. Flaherty was attacked by a gang of eight young men, beaten and bruised early today while arresting Edward J. Kenny, twenty years old, of No. 161 Third street, South Boston. Flaherty managed to hang onto his prisoner, summon a patrol wagon and get to the Lagrange station, to which he is attached. It was not until Lieutenant McConnell insisted that he go to the hospital that he consented.

Flaherty was attracted early today by the sound of what he thought was rioting in the vicinity of Oak street in the South End. Running to Oak street, he found a crowd of eight youths engaged in a fight. Seizing the first man he could, which happened to be Kenny, the policeman was immediately attacked by the entire crowd. He clung to his prisoner, dragged him to the signal box and summoned the patrol wagon.

The policeman's face was covered with blood, flowing from a dozen wounds, when he arrived at the station. His clothing also was torn almost to shreds.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

JURY TO VISIT MEYERS HOME

To view the home of Mrs. Ilone Meyers, to see whether Mrs. George W. Lidstone or anyone could have peered through the windows and seen her husband with Mrs. Meyers' arms about her neck, as claimed, the jury in the $25,000 alienation suit of Mrs. Lidstone vs. Mrs. Meyers will go to Wellesley today. The case is being heard in the Norfolk Supreme Court.

The defence will be that no affection existed between Lidstone, the chauffeur, and his wife, and that the heavy draperies on the windows of the Meyers home make it physically impossible for anyone to see through the windows any such loving scenes as were described by the plantiff's witnesses, declared Lawyer George A. Sweetser for the defence in his opening to the jury.

Francis J. Rall of Cambridge described an espionage he kept on the Meyers house, at the request of one of Mrs. Lidstone's counsel. What he saw corroborated Mrs. Lidstone's testimony and that of other witnesses.

"Sunday morning, December 3, 1910, I saw Mrs. Meyers put her arms about Mr. Lidstone's neck," he testified.

Mrs. Helen LeGacy of Linden, a pretty little woman with a low voice, testified she was acquainted with Mrs. Lidstone. November 27, 1910, went with her to the Meyers house. She went to a front window and saw Mr. Lidstone. The curtain was up an inch or so. Mrs. Meyers came into the room in which Lidstone was seated. Mrs. Meyers played the piano. She watched them for an hour. Then Mrs. Meyers pulled down the shade.

On December 4, 1910, she made another visit to Meyers' house, but saw nothing that night, save a woman's shadow in an upper room. Saw Mr. Lidstone come out of the house next morning.

Mrs. Mary E. Delano of Brookline testified the Lidstones had two rooms at her house. Mr. Lidstone paid his first visit two weeks after his wife came to the house. Heard Lidstone tell his wife he didn't love, he didn't care for her; he wanted a divorce and he had been untrue to her. Mrs. Meyers came with him and remained outside.

SENIOR CLASS DAY AT NEW HAMPSHIRE

DURHAM, N. H., June 12.—The class day exercises of the class of 1912, New Hampshire College, were held in the college chapel. President Herbert R. Tucker of the class delivered the address of welcome. O. E. Huse gave the address to the faculty and the undergraduates. Paul D. Buckminster delivered the "Class History" and H. C. Holden gave the "Class Will." The ivy oration was delivered by Jerauld A. Manter.

LILLIAN RUSSELL AND A. P. MOORE, HER HUSBAND

M. D. WHITMAN TO LIVE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 12.—Malcolm D. Whitman of Brookline, Mass., former national tennis champion, whose engagement to marry Miss Jennie A. Crocker of Burlingame, Cal., was announced last April, has leased the residence of Representative Francis Burton Harrison at No. 876 Fifth avenue.

FAIR LILLIAN IN RUSH WEDDING

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 12.—The long-expected wedding of Lillian Russell, the actress, and Alexander P. Moore of Pittsburg, took place this morning in this city.

The invitations were sent out yesterday to a few friends of Miss Russell and Mr. Moore and with each card went an admonition against publicity. Just why there should be secrecy thrown about the affair is known only to Mr. Moore and he won't tell.

The marriage license was obtained by Mr. Moore, who was accompanied to the court house by Mrs. Susan Westford of New York, a sister of Miss Russell, who attended the bride.

The ceremony took place at the Hotel Schenly after which there was a wedding breakfast. The name of the officiating clergyman is withheld.

Miss Russell's latest venture in matrimony was attended by some discomforts. She arrived here at 2 o'clock this morning in the Weber & Fields special train from Cincinnati. With a wedding in the morning Miss Russell is promised little time for rest.

It has been arranged following a popular demand that Weber & Fields play a matinee today. It was intended originally to have only an evening performance. This rushed Miss Russell from the wedding breakfast to make up. After the evening performance the show moves to Chicago.

Mr. Moore, who is publisher of the Pittsburg Leader, will go to Chicago tonight and remain until after the Republican convention closes.

ELKS PAY HONOR TO DEAD OF TITANIC

Captain Irvine of the Cunard liner Laconia dropped a large floral wreath overboard on Memorial Day in memory of brother Elks who lost their lives in the Titanic disaster, according to official dispatches just received from him. This was done under instructions of Deputy Immigration Commissioner Jeremiah J. Hurley. The wreath was furnished by Boston Lodge of Elks. To show their appreciation of Captain Irvine's kindness, the Boston Lodge is planning to make him its guest on his next visit to Boston.

MILAN LAWYERS DECLARE A STRIKE

ROME, June 12.—The lawyers of Milan have declared a general strike to begin on Monday, as a protest against disorganized state and local courts. They complain that the courts are located in unsanitary, dilapidated and over-crowded buildings; also that the legal business has become almost impossible owing to the ridiculously small number of judges, magistrates and other officers.

BABY GIRL SEES HER AUNT DROWN

While her five-year-old niece, Ruth, stood on the shore crying, Miss Rose Duggan, sister of Daniel Duggan of No. 41 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, was drowned in the shallow waters of Alewife Brook, on the boundary line between Arlington and Cambridge. Ruth ran home to her mother crying "Auntie fell into the river."

GREAT CROWD TO SEE THE FRANCONIA OFF

The steamship Franconia, Captain Smith, sailed from East Boston for Queenstown, Fishguard and Liverpool with 1,700 passengers, of whom 800 were first cabin and 400 second cabin. The sailing was witnessed by the largest crowd assembled on a steamship pier at this port for a long time.

CONDUCTOR GIVES LIFE FOR PASSENGE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 12.—Robt T. Bailey, conductor on the Dexter street line gave his life trying to prevent a woman from getting off his car while it was in motion. The woman was not hurt, but the conductor fell and received a fracture of the skull, killing him instantly.

Simply Slow Suicide to Neglect Mouth and Teeth

Millions of microbes—the worst enemies the health has—are daily laying siege to the mouth. The air we breathe is full of them. Thousands breed in particles of food which the toothbrush fails to dislodge. Physicians and dentists say it is simply suicidal to leave the mouth to the mercy of these dangerous invaders.

In spite of popular faith in them, the general run of dental creams and powders gives scant protection against these microbe foes. The trouble is that they can't reach the real microbe hiding places. They scour the teeth nice and white, but sadly shirk the rest of the mouth. The mouth lining, the entrance to the throat, the tiny spaces between the teeth are always left untouched.

But protection against these dangerous microbe foes is the simplest thing in the world. Just brushing the teeth and then rinsing the mouth with a few drops of ODOL in a little water—a process called odolizing—will put all toothbrush-defying bacteria and other impurities completely to rout. That takes only a minute, but does more good than hours of brushing with old-fashioned dentifrices.

Odol being in liquid form reaches every part of the mouth. No foes of the mouth, throat or teeth can escape it. Neither can any of the impurities which poison the breath.

Unlike all other preparations, the antiseptic power of Odol is not confined to the few moments you are using your brush. It retains its microbe-destroying effectiveness for hours after you use it. Even if the mouth is simply rinsed or gargled with a few drops of Odol in a little water—without the aid of a tooth-brush—it does more good than the most careful brushing with any other preparation. Begin odolizing today. Don't leave the mouth to the mercy of microbes a day longer than you can help. Price [illegible] at all druggists.

80,000 MEMBERS OF UNIONS ASKED TO WALK

excitement by shrieking. Some of the company officials who were near went to the aid of the injured man. The company's ambulance was summoned. He was placed in that and sent at top speed to the City Hospital.

Downtown Crash.

Two cars collided at the corner of Washington and Summer streets today, and Policeman John H. Kennedy only escaped being caught between the two cars and crushed by jumping on to one of the cars.

Several of the passengers, among them a number of women, were badly shaken up and frightened.

The cars that crashed together were inbound and outbound South Boston cars. They were well filled with passengers. The police laid the accident to a green motorman, who failed to throw the proper switch.

Policeman Kennedy, thinking that the switch would be thrown, stood directly in front of the car when it went on to the wrong track and hit the other car.

Stirs Big Excitement.

Much excitement was caused by the collision, as this is one of the busiest corners in Boston, being right in the heart of the shopping district.

More cars were running today, apparently, than on any other since last Friday when the unionized employes went out on strike.

No disorder was reported today. But it was noticeable that many of the surface cars were not as well filled with passengers as in normal times. This was because of the fear of the public that there might be trouble.

Eighty thousand members of the affiliated branches of the Boston Central Labor Union, with their families, totalling in the neighborhood of 200,000, have been called upon to refrain from riding on the Elevated cars during the continuation of the strike.

This action was taken at a meeting of the C. L. U. executive committee. Resolutions of sympathy with the strikers were passed, and the sympathizers were warned to abstain from violence.

Strikers' Statement.

At strike headquarters, No. 724 Washington street, this statement was given out today:

> It is the intention of our executive committee to request the Central Labor Union executive committee to meet with them for the purpose of arranging a general mass meeting of all the workers and people of the city and vicinity to be held on Boston Common.
>
> The situation this morning looks good from any point of view. The men are standing firm, and from all quarters we are receiving the indorsement and pledged support of our fellow citizens of this community. Outside of Boston we are receiving pledges of financial support from every quarter.
>
> The street car men of Springfield, Mass., at a meeting held last night, wired us their pledges of moral and financial support. We have also had telegrams, pledging us the same support, from as far West as Seattle, Washington, and Vancouver, British Columbia."
>
> We notice in the press of yesterday that representatives of the State Board of Arbitration are quoted as having stated that they had called on representatives of our union.
>
> Since this suspension took place we have not heard or seen anything whatever from any representative of the State Board of Arbitration.

Plan Sunday Meeting.

A conference will be held tomororw between thestrike committee and representatives of the Central Labor Union as to whether a monster mass meting and parade on Boston Common will be called for next Sunday. The plan contemplates asking Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to address the meeting.

Two sessions of the Dorchester District Court were held today on acount of strike cases. One of the most interesting was that of a car statrter and a strike-breaking conductor, charged with mutual assault over a question of how many fares the conductor should turn in.

The car starter, James Watson of No. 7 Christopher street, twenty-two years old, was a conductor before the strike. He was promoted when the strike came to be a starter at the Neponset car barn.

Today he was arrested with Harry Richardson of No. 1092 Park avenue, New York city, a strikebreaker working as conductor. They were charged with mutual assault at the car barn today.

The police said that the car starter accused the strikebreaker of not bringing in enough fares for the passengers he had carried. The argument led to a fight, which drew a crowd and resulted in the arrest of both men. The two were put on probation until July 12.

William J. Norton, a striking motorman, defended himself stoutly from a charge of cutting a trolley rope, but was convicted upon testimony of Wilson Cordiner, patrolman attached to Dorchester station who arrested him. Norton was fined $15. He appealed and was held in $200. Bail was readily furnished.

A public mass meeting in behalf of the striking motormen and conductors of division 3 of the Elevated, comprising Fields Corner, Milton and Neponset lines, will be held in Chickatawbut Hall, Neponset, at 8 o'clock this evening.

Mayor Taylor of Medford refuses to permit the striking conductors and motormen from Salem street car barn in Medford to hold a tag day Friday for the benefit of the married strikers. Mayor Taylor fears disorder from it.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

The following resolutions have been passed by the AMERICAN chapel of the Typographical Union:

> Whereas, the employes of the Boston Elevated Railway Company having gone on strike for better wages, hours and general working conditions, and
>
> Whereas, the public in general and organized labor has been requested to refrain from patronizing the Boston Elevated Railway Company, be it therefore
>
> Resolved, that we, the members of the Boston AMERICAN chapel of Boston Typographical Union No. 13, refuse to patronize said company until such time as it recognizes the rights of its employes to organize into a union of their craft, if they so wish, and to submit the present controversy to arbitration, and
>
> Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to President Bancroft of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and also to the press of Boston.
>
> FRED W. THORPE,
> M. W. HAVERTY,
> A. L. LEEMAN,
> Committee on Resolutions.

Here are resolutions adopted by the Boston Central Union calling upon the public not to ride in Elevated company cars:

> Resolved, That we call upon the public in general, and organized labor in particular, to refrain from riding upon the cars of the Boston Elevated Railway Company until said company recognizes the rights of its employes to organize into a union of their craft if they so wish and to submit the present controversy to arbitration, and be it further
>
> Resolved, That we earnestly request all members of organized labor to use every effort to maintain the law and order and to frown upon every effort that is liable to bring about injury to any citizen and the destruction of life and property and for committing any overt act."

William Schandberg, twenty-four years old, of No. 541 Washington stret, Brighton, was arraigned in the Brighton Municipal Court today charged with conspiracy with John R. Hutchinson, Jr., to place dynamite on the tracks of the Boston Elevated Railroad.

Schandberg pleaded not guilty and was held in $5,000 bail for a hearing on June 20. He made no statement in court nor would he discuss his case. He was unable to obtain bail and was locked up in the Charles Street Jail. He was formerly a conductor in the employ of the Elevated Company.

Dr. Jordan Tours Barns.

The Elevated was housing 714 strike-breakers when Chief Inspector Thomas Jordan of the Boston Board of Health visited the various barns last night to determine whether the health rules and regulations were being observed. Unsanitary conditions wre found in the Bartlett street car barns and in the Oak square station. The company remedied conditions to meet the approval of the inspector.

The Fields Corner barn is sheltering 170. There are 130 in the Grove Hall barns, 120 in the South Boston barns, 130 in the Otis Place barn, 72 at Lenox street, 57 at Ashmont, six at Sullivan Square, 10 at Allston, 40 at Milton, 29 at Neponset and 50 at Bartlett street.

"In all the barns now in use for living and sleeping quarters the Elevated has spared no expense to make living conditions satisfactory," said Dr. Jordon. The strike-breakers are sleeping now on new iron cots, with new springs, mattresses, blankets, sheets and pillows. Sanitary accommodations are satisfactory in every barn."

An East Walpole car with several windows shattered came into the Forest Hills Terminal, having been stoned in East Dedham. About 100 strike-breakers were quartered in the Lotus place carbarn at Forest Hills.

At a conference of labor union officials and some of the carmen's executive board it was decided to take advantage of the city charter provision by which, upon petition of twenty-five citizens of each ward, the City Council must call a mass meeting of the voters to act upon the matter petitioned for as an official instruction to the Legislature from the city.

Members of the striking union will be assigned to secure the twenty-five signatures required. It is believed that such instructions formulated at a meeting of this character would require the calling of the Legislature, even if it had been prorogued. The precedents for such a definite instruction by mass meeting hark back to 1865.

FIGURES OF "L" STRIKE.

The following are the most accurate figures obtainable in connection with the strike of the unionized uniformed employes of the Boston Elevated Railroad:

AMERICAN'S COUNT OF PARADE BY FOUR REPORTERS.

First count, at Park Square and Boylston street	1,546
Second count, near same spot	1,562
Third count, on Tremont street (as parade proceeded	1,720

THE FUNNY SIDE OF THE STRIKE

A Meeting House Hill car, bowling along to Dudley street elevated, carried forty-five passengers on the seats, but only five fares on the dial. The conductor—a strike-breaker from Philadelphia—was pocketing the great majority of fares for himself.

A passenger who came aboard compared the number of passengers with the small amount "rung up" on the dial. The conductor took his nickel, but rung no fare.

"Why don't you ring up that fare? asked the passenger.

"Who are you," snapped the conductor, "one of the directors?"

The passenger subsided.

An amusing incident happened on a Cambridge car. An elderly woman asked the new conductor for a transfer for a certain point. The conductor pulled out a package of transfers from an inside pocket of his coat and passed her one without checking it for the destination she desired.

"This transfer is not punched," she said.

"Madam," added the conductor, "that will take you to any point in the State."

It was reported that the company would take action to have the strikers return the badges they wear in spite of the fact that each man deposited seventy-five cents, the price of the badge, with the company.

The Boston Elevated has pending against it in the different courts in this city forty-seven long-standing civil suits for damages for accidents which are ready for trial this week. The judges have decided that none of these cases will be tried while the strike is pending out of justice to the road. The cases go over until October.

GERMAN SAILORS ARE FIRE HEROES

NEW YORK, June 12.—Sailors from the visiting German squadron rescued a woman and a baby during a fire in Brooklyn early today. The sailors were returning from Coney Island on a street car, when they saw a house in flames at No. 1442 East Tenth street. Mrs. Frances Wagner, who resided there, was at an open window on the second floor, with her baby clutched at her breast, crying for help. Without waiting for the car to stop, the sailors jumped off, dashed into the burning smoke-filled lower rooms and made their way to the upper floor. One picked up the hysterical woman while another grabbed the baby. A crowd cheered when the sailors appeared.

Mrs. English Faces United States Court on Charge of Hiding Assets in Bankruptcy.

Charged with concealing assets in bankruptcy and with perjury, Mrs. Ellen M. English, mother of eight small children, was a witness in her own behalf in her trial before Judge Dodge and a jury in the United States District Court today.

She denied having in her possession any large amount of money, which is claimed by the government to have been received by her and her husband from the estate of Thomas Maloney. Mrs. Maloney, who is seventy-five years old, was left destitute. She was in the courtroom.

Mrs. English filed a petition in bankruptcy, saying that she was without any money. Investigation followed, and it was alleged she has in her possession $1,800 after Mr. Maloney died. She asserts the amount was owed to her for nursing and other expenses.

Her husband was a witness in her behalf.

It's a Question of Cash With Me Now!

I AM FACING the crisis of my business career. I dare not consider anything else but COLD CASH, irrespective of loss! If I could, do you suppose I would let these superb GEORGES CUSTOM MODEL CLOTHES go at the positively ridiculous prices at which they're now selling? No, Sir: it's because the combination of the rainy season and a national business depression has left me so overstocked in all my five stores that I was forced to forget everything but a quick method of raising cash. And I'm going to get away with it. The selling is smashing all records. I've reserved nothing. Even

FUNERAL OF MGR. MILLERICK

The funeral mass for the late Rt. Rev. Monsignor Millerick, rector of St. Joseph's Church, West End, was celebrated this morning in the presence of a great gathering of clergy and laity.

Cardinal O'Connell was present in the sanctuary. At the close of the requiem mass he pronounced the solemn absolution.

The officers of the mass were the Rev. Joseph F. Coppinger of Brookline, celebrant; the Rev. P. J. McCormack, deacon; the Rev. J. J. Smith, sub-deacon. The Rev. W. J. Roach was master of ceremonies.

The eulogy of the dead pastor was pronounced by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Splaine, D. D., rector of the Cathedral.

Included among the great congregation of mourners inside the church were delegations from St. Joseph's Court, M. C. O. F.; Fenwick Court, M. C. O. F.; West End Council, Knights of Columbus; St. Joseph's Total Abstinence Society and the Holy Name Society of the parish.

The burial was in Holyhood Cemetery, where at the grave the "Benedictus" was chanted by a choir of priests.

Miss Lee Defends Present-Day Styles ◆◆◆ Not Bad if Right People Wear Them

WOMAN PORTRAIT PAINTER SAYS NEW FASHION MEANS HEALTH.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Chicago—breezy, blase Chicago—has been condemning the present day styles as worn by girls and women and Miss Mary M. Bartelme, who has been chosen assistant judge of the Juvenile Court there expressed her opinion as follows:

The present day dress displays shamelessly their (girl's) physical rather than their innocent girlish charms. The present day styles are outlandish and improper and the display of six inches of silk stockings and the exposure of the contour of the wearers' entire figure is absolutely vulgar.

In reply to this sweeping statement, Miss Laura Lee, one of the best portrait painters of Boston, says:

The human form shown through drapery is one of the most beautiful things in the world and is what the artist is always looking for. The only vulgar thing about the present day styles is the way people look at them and talk about them.

Lays Blame to Mothers.

The styles at the present moment are the most artistic we have had. What we see on the streets—some of the exaggerations, are only caricatures of the real styles and they are what people foolishly judge by.

The shorter and scanter the skirts the better, and if they're too tight there's no objection in my mind to slitting them up the side. If they were worn up to the knees instead of above the ankles they would be far better still.

A great deal of the trouble lies with the school-girls who are so anxious to appear grown up that they try to wear grown-up styles and then are only ridiculous.

It's the fault of the mothers of the day, for they begin when the baby is two weeks old to consider what the child wants rather than what it should have and so later on the girls get what they want in the way of clothes and attire themselves regardless.

Boston is to my mind the most truly fashionable city in the country. The fashions here are the true French fashions, while in New York they are the French of the street.

They are less exaggerated in Boston, more quiet and agreeable. Here they follow the styles but don't exaggerate them so much as in New York.

This is truly the hey-day of the portrait painter with the beautiful clinging gowns and the superb styles.

People who criticise our fashions judge too much from the effects they see upon the streets, but not from the real fashions. The street costumes we see are many of them only cheap and exaggerated imitations.

Yes, of course there is too much powder and paint and rats and puffs worn—but who are the girls who wear them? We see a tough looking girl dressed in the height of fashion and say she looks tough, but she would look and be as tough no matter how she were garbed.

The best looking girls are the ones who don't do all these things, but are natural.

Favors Short Skirt.

But to return to the short, scant skirt. The skirts for hygienic purposes alone should be short to escape all the dust and germs of the sidewalk—even up to the knees is preferable to the long, dragging kind, but then not necessary.

LAURA LEE, NOTED PORTRAIT PAINTER

MISS LAURA LEE

Think of the styles of today in comparison with the styles of our grandmothers' days—how much simpler, more beautiful and more hygienic.

Just the passing of the hour-glass figure, the coming of the large waist effects of the present styles and the loosening of the corset strings is enough to justify the styles. Think of the hoop skirts and bustles and bangs of that day and then never complain again.

Lightening the weight of the clothing, the discarding of so many petticoats are blessings in themselves. Those hoops and bustles and petticoats and tight corsets spelled misery for womankind, but we've progressed and now have comfort in our clothing as we should have. Freedom and naturalness are encouraged now.

The fashions of the day are not bad if the right people wear them, but some people would spoil any fashion.

Health and comfort are more universally considered now and the styles of the present day are the result.

ANTIQUATED SEA LAWS EXPOSED

LONDON, June 12.—Light of a sensational nature was thrown today upon the manner of applying the regulations of the Board of Trade, which govern the safeguarding appliances on English ships, when the government's inquiry into the Titanic disaster was resumed. Sir Walter Howell, chief of the marine department of the Board of Trade, testified that the number of passengers a ship carried had never entered into the calculations as to the number of lifeboats she should carry. Nor was the size of the crew considered. The law governing the number of boats was based solely upon the gross tonnage of ships, Sir Walter said.

Sir Walter admitted that the Board of Trade regulations were antiquated, but said he was not competent to answer why there had been no alterations in the past eighteen years. "I suppose the need of new laws for protecting life at sea had not occurred to any one," he said.

"It seems to me on the surface of things," remarked Lord Mersey, "that a ship should carry enough lifeboats to save everybody on board. If what happened in the Titanic disaster was a fair example of the number of boats, they should be increased one-third."

Sir Robert Finlay, counsel for the White Star line, said that there would be insufficient seamen on a ship to man the lifeboats if that were done.

TROOPS BATTLE WITH LISBON STRIKERS

BADAJOS, Spanish Frontier, June 12.—Heavy detachments of cavalry and infantry fought a pitched battle in the streets of Lisbon today with a mob of rioting tramway strikers. Many volleys were fired and scores were wounded on both sides. The battle was precipitated by an attempt of the government to operate the electric railway lines with non-union labor. Street cars were overturned and windows in many public buildings broken.

BONES 5,000,000 YEARS OLD FOUND

RENO, Nev., June 12.—Marvellous discoveries of prehistoric mammals in the desert east of Mina are reported by Professor Lawrence Baker of the department of geological research of the University of California. Investigation shows that the region about Mina once was an immense body of tropical water. The bones of a three-toed horse have been unearthed. The animal was about the size of a lamb. The entire remains of a prehistoric dog has been brought to light. It is stated that these animals lived at least 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 years ago.

12-MILE FLIGHT AT ATWOOD FIELD

George H. Gray, the aviator, took up Dr. W. F. Provan of the Harvard Dental School for a flight of about twelve miles, lasting twenty-two minutes, from Atwood Park, about Saugus and Revere, in his biplane.

Rush Aid to Victims of Alaska Volcano

SEWARD, Alaska, June 12.—Every steam vessel along the Alaskan coast was turned into a rescue ship today and dispatched at full speed to Kodiak Island, where 200 persons are reported to have been overwhelmed by ashes from Katmai volcano. Refugees who, however, had reached Uyak during the past twenty-four hours, assert that the six villages of Cold Bay, Katmai, Kanatuk, Douglas, Savoonsky, and Kamgamute are buried beneath twenty feet of ashes and that at least half of their 438 inhabitants have perished.

The situation at Woody Island, on which 168 fishermen and their families live, is unknown but it is feared that all there have been suffocated by the devastating blanket of ashes.

The fall of ashes had materially decreased today, allowing the rescue ships to travel rapidly without fear of disaster. Detonations from the four volcanoes along the coast continue, however. All vegetation has been destroyed by the ashes and it will be necessary for the government to provide sustenance for 10,000 persons.

WASHINGTON, June 12—Earth tremors beginning at 7:50 and lasting until 8:30 o'clock were recorded on the seismograph at the Georgetown University. The shock was heaviest at 7:59 and is believed to be of the same origin as those recorded since the Alaska volcanic disturbances.

PAIR HELD IN TAYLOR KILLING

FARMINGTON, Me., June 12—Miss Guida Searles and John Sabine are held in bonds of $2,000 each for the September term of the Supreme Court charged with complicity in the murder of Mrs. Marshall Taylor. Neither was able to get bail. They are in the Farmington jail.

Marshall W. Taylor is serving a life sentence for the murder of his wife more than a year ago. He told his attorneys others were implicated. So persistent were his assertions that an investigation was made, and Miss Searles and Sabine were arrested.

Their hearing was held behind closed doors. A new witness testified, it is said, he was passing the Taylor house on the evening the crime was committed and saw Searles and Taylor carrying something large and heavy, while the woman was keeping watch.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

While unloading a truck belonging to the American Express Company at the North Station today, Michael J. Delaney, 28, of No. 5 Vine street, Somerville, was struck by an outward bound train, receiving a fractured skull, fractured jaw, injuries to his nose, left eye and left ear.

TONIC BEST THING FOR INDIGESTION

John Magner Bears This Out in Statement

John Magner, 592 East Fourth St., South Boston, made the following statement recently in connection with Tona Vita, the new tonic, that is now being introduced in Boston:

"I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble and nervousness for some time. There were times that I could not eat anything but liquid food—soft boiled eggs, toast and the like, and even this would cause a bloating of the stomach and misery beyond endurance. I slept poorly and was constantly fatigued. At times I found it impossible to do my work. I was nervous, had violent headaches and, in fact, was very badly run-down.

"A friend of mine had tried this Tona Vita and told me that it had helped him wonderfully. I started taking the medicine the next day and it has built me up in every way. I feel as I did ten years ago. I can now eat anything and do a hard day's work without being tired out. I don't believe there is another medicine like this on earth."

The foregoing statement should prove interesting to those suffering from nervous indigestion. In nine cases out of ten, indigestion is only a symptom—the real trouble with thousands of half-sick, listless men and women of today is nervous debility. If the nerves are properly nourished and the general system toned up, indigestion will disappear.

Nervous debility affects every organ of the body. The circulation is poor. The mind is sluggish. The back is weak. Spirits are depressed, and the entire system is dulled and inefficient.

Stomach-trouble is sure to result from this condition. The appetite fails and the food will not digest. It literally rots in the stomach and poisons the entire system. Anyone afflicted with nervous indigestion who will take Tona Vita for one week will be convinced that its wonderful tonic effect is the one thing needed to banish indigestion.

There is no substitute for this remarkable tonic. There is no other preparation like it on the American market. It is building up hundreds of run-down men and women in Boston. Don't drag around a day longer. Let Tona Vita build you up. It is for sale at all leading drug stores.

ALICE PEIRCE IN NEW YORK COURT

Boston society folk—the "horsey" set especially—today were amazed to hear of the latest escapade of Alice Peirce, better known as Mrs. Alice Crowninshield Rogers Peirce. Mrs. Peirce pleaded guilty in the Yorkville court in New York to a charge of disorderly conduct in Maxim's restaurant.

She was arrested, the manager of Maxim's declared, after she had kicked through the window of a taxicab, and had used language more picturesque than elegant.

When the former society leader and rider to hounds appeared before the bar of Magistrate Corrigan's court her white sailor hat was battered in the crown and set askew on her head, her rather mannish check suit was splotched with dirt and there was in her eyes a tired, troubled look.

She listened quietly to the story of Walter Carroll, the manager of Maxim's, and when the magistrate asked her if she had been guilty of the conduct ascribed to her she bowed her head and nodded faint assent.

Mrs. Peirce had come to the cafe, the complaining witness declared, in the company of a man and a woman, and immediately began to create disorder. When protests were made she swore roundly at the head waiter and the manager himself, and threatened to kick things over and "raise Cain" if she were not let alone.

Finally, after much persuasion, she was induced to get into a taxi, but the instant the door was closed Mrs. Peirce rebelled, so Mr. Carroll swore, and kicked through the window, yelling to be let out. Carroll called a policeman and had her arrested.

Mrs. Peirce was accompanied by two women when she appeared in court and during the recital of the complaint against her she drew from her reticule a large roll of bills and began to count them, evidently anticipating a fine. When Carroll told the Magistrate that he wanted Mrs. Peirce put under bonds not to come to his place again, Corrigan looked sharply at the thin face and dark circled eyes of the prisoner and said:

"You hear what this man says. Shall I put you under bonds to leave his place alone, or will you make a promise not to go there again?"

"I promise," Mrs. Peirce said, and she was discharged.

She refused her address when she was arrested but recently had a home in Pelham, near New York, and drove a big yellow automobile at breakneck speed over Westchester roads.

Col. Astor's Name on Police Hero Roll

First Time Civilian Has Been So Honored; Legion Sends Resolutions to Vincent

NEW YORK, June 12.—The name of Colonel John Jacob Astor has been placed on the honor legion of the New York police department. This is the first time the name of any civilian has been admitted to the legion, an exclusive, independent organisation of honor men. The members are eligible only after having been formally selected as the heroes for the year in the department.

Inspector Schmittberger presented to Vincent, the youthful head of the Astor family, a set of engrossed resolutions adopted by the honor legion. The speech of presentation is said to have affected Mr. Astor very much.

Yesterday he visited police headquarters for the first time since receiving the appointment as a member of the committee which selects the names for the roll of honor.

He was recently named to the vacancy on that committee caused by the death of his father.

A new evidence of the generosity of Mr. Astor has just come to light. He has bestowed on the widow of Victor Robbins, valet to Colonel Astor, who died with his master when the Titanic foundered, a life pension of fifty dollars a month. In addition, Mr. Astor has arranged that the only son of the valet, George Robbins, seventeen years old, shall continue at school where he is studying electrical engineering at the expense of the millionaire.

TRAIN NEAR WRECK; ENGINE LOSES WHEEL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—The Pennsylvania Railroad New York train narrowly escaped disaster when the locomotive lost one of its rear wheels crossing the drawbridge near where nearly three-score lives were lost in 1906 when an electric train plunged into the Thoroughfare. The passengers did not know what had happened until the train pulled into the station.

NEW HARVARD CLUB TO COST $600,000

The new Harvard Club building that is to be built on Commonwealth avenue, sixty feet west of Massachusetts avenue, will cost $600,000. The clubhouse will contain a large meeting hall, dining rooms, committee rooms, squash courts and about forty bedrooms.

$25,000 FIRE AT NO. WEYMOUTH

Six cottages, a large boathouse and two yachts were destroyed early today by a fire that threatened to wipe out the entire section in the vicinity of Hunt's Hill, North Weymouth. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

The flames started in the boat-building shop of Leonard C. Embree, Fore River avenue, Hunt's Hill, from which they spread to the dwelling, general store and boathouse of John Veader, also on Fore River avenue, and which were also destroyed.

The flames in turn then burned the cottages of John Haley, Captain John Clark, Jeremiah Pitts, Leonard Stenstrom and Captain Peterson.

Fire also caught the roof of the Bayside Inn and that of a garage near, but little damage was done to these buildings.

In Embree's boathouse was the power boat Elstar, owned by Arthur Albee of Hyde Park and valued at $2,000, and another power boat, the Rhones, said to be even more valuable, with three more boats under construction.

In Veader's boathouse was a power boat worth $800, which was to have been launched today.

HOW ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER VICTIMS FIND RELIEF

Asthma and hay fever are diseases of debility; the result of a run down condition of the system. This is simply another way of saying that proper nourishment is not obtained from the food. Because the nourishing, body-building elements of Father John's Medicine are easily taken into the system, is why this tonic food medicine is so effective in the treatment of asthma, hay fever and catarrh. Father John's Medicine soothes and heals the throat irritation, at the same time giving new strength and health.

OLLIE JAMES FOR CHAIRMAN

NEW YORK, June 12.—Former United States Senator Fred T. Dubois, national campaign manager for Speaker Clark, who came to New York to look over the local situation preparatory to taking charge of headquarters at Baltimore, in an interview, said:

"No one can be nominated at Baltimore except Speaker Clark, because:

First—More than one-third of the delegates to the convention are his devoted friends.

Second—If all the other candidates with their adherents were to combine against him it would not avail, owing to the rule which requires the votes of two-thirds of the thousand and ninety-four delegates to nominate.

Third—Speaker Clark has already pledged to him, openly or privately, over one-half the delegates to Baltimore.

Fourth—A majority of the States are behind him and a majority of the territories also are in favor of his nomination.

"Whom do the friends of Speaker Clark favor for temporary chairman?"

"We favor Senator Ollie James of Kentucky. We believe he will be the choice of the Committee on Arrangements, at its meeting, called for June 20. We believe the full National Committee will approve this selection, and we are satisfied the National Convention itself will ratify the designation by an overwhelming majority."

DEMOCRATS WILL HAVE NEW NATIONAL CAMPAIGN OFFICER

BALTIMORE, June 12.—Plans are being quietly formulated by several members of the Democratic National Committee, it was learned today, to create a new office to be known as Chairman of the Campaign Committee. This new officer of the campaign, who will work with the National Chairman, may or may not be a member of the National Committee, and his selection will be made by the presidential candidate, after a conference with the new National Committee members.

The National chairman will continue in general charge of the campaign. The creation of the new office has been under discussion for some time and a move to bring the office into being will be made when the National Committee meets just after the Democratic convention adjourns. The new National Committee, it was said today, will in all likelihood elect their chairman at the first meeting and then adjourn until the Presidential candidate can be conferred with.

GUARDING JUDGE IN COUNTERFEIT PLOT

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 12.—The life of Judge George W. Ray, who opened the June term of the United States Supreme Court in this city, is being closely guarded by government officers, according to Marshal Daniel F. Breitenstein of Utica. The special precautions are a result of the plot which developed in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., among counterfeiters.

CLARK EXTOLLED BY WATTERSON

NEW YORK, June 12.—Henry Watterson was asked at the Manhattan Club why Champ Clark should be nominated and Woodrow Wilson defeated for the presidency. The colonel sai din his reply:

No honorable man can learn the facts and inspect the proof which I hold and have repeatedly offered to produce under proper restriction as to personal rights and party interest, and remain of the opinion that the Governor of New Jersey is either a trustworthy, or a safe man to be invested with Democratic leadership and the Presidential office.

The Democratic party wants a Democrat, tried and true, in the White House. We want no man there so thinks himself so great, and whose friends think and tell him he is so great, that when the test comes he is good for nothing.

Champ Clark has been at Washington long enough to know who's who and what's what. He ought to be and is good enough for plain people that want a man and not an angel for their President. He has been in the thick of factional fighting during revolutionary times. Inevitably he has said much he might have better left unsaid. So have all of us. If he had not he would have been ill fit for his job, or for any other job. A politician, even a statesman, may be too prudent.

Champ Clark is simply a man—an honest man—a man of ability and education—a man of flesh and blood. He is a Democrat. On every essential issue of the time he is as sound as a piece of seasoned timber and as straight as a shingle. If we can not elect him we san elect no one.

PETITION GARDNER TO URGE NEW CURB ON IMMIGRATION

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Congressman A. P. Gardner today is considering a petition urging a curb on immigration signed by prominent educators, financiers and labor leaders in Massachusetts. The petitioners say the cost of living problem is aggravated by the "unlimited importation of unskilled laborers" with which Americans must compete.

The maintenance of the American standards of living among the laboring classes is impossible, say the petitioners, unless a limitation is placed upon the importation of labor.

The petition is signed by the following:

Educators—President Lowell of Harvard University, President Richard T. Maclaurin of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, President H. A. Garfield of Williams College; T. N. Carver, professor of economics at Harvard; C. J. Bullock, professor of economics at Harvard; O. M. W. Sprague, assistant professor of banking and finance at Harvard; W. Z. Ripley, professor of economics at Harvard; Robert A. Woods, author and social worker.

Labor leaders—President John F. Tobin of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, President John Golden of the United Textile Workers, James Duncan, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor; Henry Abrahams, secretary of the International Cigarmakers' Union, and Arthur M. Huddell, business agent of the Building Trades Council.

Financiers—Henry Lee Higginson, Alfred D. Foster, president of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, and Philip Stockton and Francis R. Hart of the Old Colony Trust Company.

Gentle Art of Hurling Epithets as Practiced by Taft and Roosevelt

What President Taft has said of ex-President Roosevelt and the latter's policies:

Treason to the party. Unfair tactics. Unfounded accusations.

He has certain faculties and tendencies that would make it unsafe to put him back in office.

Is unsafe, is dangerous.

Is strong headed.

Is impatient of legal restraint.

Has unsound constitutional views.

An unsound man.

Utter wreck he would have made.

His many flimsy contests.

Arrogance of his statements.

A campaign of bluff and bluster.

A soap box primary.

Only his selfish ambition is to be consulted.

Mere assertions without reference to records.

Refuses me a square deal.

His theories crude and revolutionary.

I wonder why he has stopped his abuse and misrepresentations.

He has called me every name on the calendar.

Dangerous to give Roosevelt a third term.

He certainly does not lack imagination.

I know the difference between truth and fiction, between a deficit and a surplus.

I know what a square deal is and I know he does not resemble Abraham Lincoln.

He is fond of making general and irresponsible charges.

I suppose I will have to look for votes among the unindicted.

What ex-President Roosevelt has said of President Taft, the National Republican Committee, etc.:

He and his advisers care nothing for the will of the people.

Pure political brigandage. (Taft got the six delegates-at-large in Ohio.)

One district in Alabama represents naked theft.

The Taft leaders speak as if they were the regular Republicans. I do not concede that theft is a test of regularity.

A receiver of stolen goods.

Acts which if done to influence would be criminal can be perpetrated with impunity so far as national nominations are concerned.

We have stood 'em all on their heads.

DUBOIS CALLS CLARK THE MAN

NEW YORK, June 12.—Former United States Senator Fred T. Dubois, national campaign manager for Speaker Clark, held a long conference with Chairman Mack and Secretary Urey Woodson, of the National Committee; Colonel Henry Watterson and other Democratic leaders.

Senator Dubois, who came to New York to look over the local situation preparatory to taking charge of headquarters at Baltimore, said:

"No one can be nominated at Baltimore except Speaker Clark, because——

"First—More than one-third of the delegates to the convention are his devoted friends.

"Second—If all the other candidates, with their adherents, were to combine against him it would not avail, owing to the rule which requires the votes of two-thirds of the thousand and ninety-four delegates to nominate.

"Third—Speaker Clark has already pledged to him, openly or privately, over one-half the delegates to Baltimore. A majority of the States are behind him, and a majority o fthe Territories also are in favor of his nomination."

O'GORMAN MAY BE COMMITTEE LEADER FOR CAMPAIGN WORK

BALTIMORE, June 12.—Plans are being made by several members of the Democratic National Committee to create a new office, to be known as chairman of the campaign committee. This new officer of the campaign, who will work for the national chairman may or may not be a member of the National Committee, and his selection will be made by the Presidential candidate after a conference with the new National Committee members. The national chairman will continue in general charge of the campaign.

Already the name of United States Senator O'Gorman of New York has been discussed among National Committeemen for the post.

DANIELS PROPOSES THE SECOND CHOICE AS VICE-PRESIDENT

BALTIMORE, June 12.—National Committeeman Daniels has started a movement to bring about the nomination for Vice-President of the man who stands second for the Presidential nomination on the final ballot. Mr. Daniels says the party cannot take any chances on nominating a "small" man for the Vice-Presidency, but must put with its Presidential preference a man for Vice-President who is big enough to be President.

Boys on Raft Spurn Aid of Life Boats

Paddle Back to Warren Bridge as Rescuers Return to Ocean Liner.

An officer on the Red Star liner Marquette, now at the Hoosac Tunnel docks, saw two Charlestown boys floating down the Charles River on a flimsy raft today and reported to Captain Finlay of the liner that the boys were in danger of drifting out to sea. The captain ordered two lifeboats sent to the rescue immediately.

But the rescuers found that the boys did not want to be rescued, neither did they think highly of the display of British oarsmanship and made many remarks regarding this. At last the two lifeboats went back to the Marquette, while the boys paddled back the river to the Warren Bridge.

MAN CATCHES FISH TWICE HIS OWN SIZE

PROVINCETOWN, June 12.—After a desperate fight, which lasted more than two hours, Frank Cook of this town succeeded in hauling in a halibut weighing 270 pounds, which took the hook on his hand line as he was fishing for cod, just off Race Point. Cook is a little man, weighing not more than 130 pounds.

TALKING DRAPER FOR SENATOR

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.—Prominent Republicans in the confidence of the party leaders are becoming interested in reports from Massachusetts that former Governor Eben S. Draper of that State will be a candidate for United States Senator to succeed W. Murray Crane.

Friends of former Governor Draper assert that since his defeat by Governor Foss he has become more popular with his party and could unite both the progressive and old-line Republicans in that State.

This rumor is taken with considerable seriousnes, although no direct word on the subject has come from Mr. Draper. He is known to be close to both Crane and Lodge, who will undoubtedly be called into the councils of the party when Crane's successor is really brought to the front as a candidate.

Another report that is coupled with the Draper movement for the Senatorship is one concerning Ambassador to Russia Curtis Guild, who has been urged to become a candidate. He is popular with the younger men of the party throughout Massachusetts. It has been made plain, however, according to some of his friends here, that he does not care for any such honors, but would prefer a place in the cabinet.

Always allied with the militia of his State and prominent in the Spanish war, his friends here assert that he berth of Secretary of War would be just such an honor that Guild would appreciate. It is taken to mean that if the Republican party meets with success this Fall, Guild will be a candidate for some cabinet place unless his party in Massachusetts demands that he become a candidate for Senator Crane's toga in order to save the party, which is more or less upset.

Former Governors Draper and Guild are both well known here and are high in the councils of the Republican party, and the reports from Massachusetts are being talked over in many quarters, although no definite word from either of them has been received.

NOTED BASEBALL MAN IN AUTO TRAGEDY

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 12.—Lewis H. Morgan, a dry goods dealer, is dead; H. P. Weller, a newspaper man, is fatally hurt, and Harry A. Lumley, formerly manager of the Brooklyn baseball team, who was recently deposed as manager of the Binghamton team, is seriously injured, as the result of an automobile accident early today. The machine in which the men were riding skidded into an iron bridge near Harpursville and was wrecked.

We intend to put on the market a first-class bread flour. It is made in Minnesota from finest selected wheat and is as nearly perfect as the best modern milling machinery and scientific methods can produce.

We want an appropriate name for this flour and we are asking our friends to furnish the name. By "our friends" we mean the people who are using Old Grist Mill Health Foods. Each user of these Foods may send any number of names—and with each name may be sent the front of an Old Grist Mill package, containing the picture of the old grist mill.

OLD GRIST MILL HEALTH FOODS

Consist of the following:

Old Grist Mill Wheat Coffee
If genuine coffee disagrees with you—why not drink the Old Grist Mill. It's flavor is delicious—Economical to use—200 cups to pound—Adults and children can drink with pleasure without injury. Not like other substitutes. Try it.

Old Grist Mill Rye Flakes
A health breakfast food. A gentle laxative, added to the menu it will bring health.

Old Grist Mill Rolled Wheat
Not heating to blood like oatmeal—easily digested. A splendid summer food.

Old Grist Mill Health Flour
Same flavor as old-fashioned, country-ground entire wheat flour.

The flour to be named is a fancy, patent white flour, particularly suited to the making of bread, although it is excellent for biscuits, buns, rolls, cakes and other purposes for which a bread flour can be used. It is a flour of especial fineness and whiteness, and it will be the best bread flour on the market.

Send in Your Choice of a Name at Once

Write your own name and address at the top of a sheet of paper—your choice of a name for the flour in the middle—and your grocer's name and address at the bottom. Don't put anything else on the page. All names submitted will be carefully considered, and the award will be made as soon as possible after the contest closes on June 25th. The name of the successful contestant and the name chosen will be published in these columns.

PROVIDENCE WOMAN STAR WITNESS IN TRIAL OF BIG LEM

The trial of John Strausnider, alias "Big Lem," charged with conspiring to steal $7,500 from Samuel Butter, an Atlantic avenue junk dealer, was resumed today in the Superior Criminal Court.

Added interest was lent to the case by the testimony of Elizabeth E. Felton of No. 41 Snow street, Providence, who declared that Strausnider was a visitor at her home when Butter was there claiming to have been robbed. She said that on July 17 about 2:30 in the afternoon Strausnider and another man hired two rooms, stating that they were in the jewelry business.

The next day, while preparing supper, she heard a noise and someone yelling that he had lost $7,500. Rushing into the hall she saw Strausnider, she said, putting on his overcoat. With another man he then left by the back door.

When she went into the room which Strausnider and the other man hired she stumbled over a dress suit case and fell in a faint. The room was half dark and she saw many pieces of paper and chalk scattered about the floor. The suit case was brought into the courtroom.

EDNA SCHENCK, BOSTON GIRL, IN PRINCESS RACE

Another vote list Sunday!

The new list of candidates' standing will be compiled up to next Friday, June 14, at 11 a. m.

When next Sunday's vote totals are read everyone will know just where you stand in the contest. If you stand well up in the list your friends will rally to your support and make your position stronger than ever.

And the public enthusiasm is what you want to get, girls.

The thing for you to do, Miss Candidate, to do now, is to put your whole soul into gathering as many votes as possible between now and next Friday at 11 a. m.

The slight effort required will seem but a small thing next month if you win the Princess title and outfit.

Your work now will seem trivial if you are one of the passengers on a luxurious ocean steamship en route to the cool shores of Bermuda for a stay on that delightful island.

Your present activity will seem well "worth while" if you win any one of the glorious sea trips offered as vacation prizes.

Surely you can get for your own some one of this varied prize array!

It's a case of "the survival of the fittest." The folks on this earth usually get what they are entitled to, but one thing is certain, activity, energy, ambition and "hustle" invariably bring adequate rewards.

The friends of the late Dr. A. J. Schenck are rallying to the support of his daughter, Edna C. Schenck, who is at present one of the contest leaders. She is a strong contender for the honors. She lives at No. 354 Massachusetts avenue, Boston.

Morris Smith Sees the Boston American

Louisiana Visitor Amazed at Wonders of Plant; Wants to Be Newspaper Man.

Nine-year-old Morris Smith came clear from Louisiana to see the Boston AMERICAN plant and was shown around the building by Noonan.

Noonan is the head office boy. Naturally the AMERICAN is a familiar story to him now. He wouldn't go across the street now to see a printing press, to say nothing of coming up from Louisiana. Neither does Noonan think an editor is a wonderful person necessarily.

But Morris Smith is satisfied now—that is, almost satisfied. He won't be quite happy till his father lets him go into newspaper work.

Here is how Noonan showed the Louisiana lad around the AMERICAN plant:

By NOONAN,

American's Head Office Boy.

That Morris Smith from Louisiana said when he left the building that he would like to go all over the place again. He was interested from the start. I never saw anybody so interested in the place. When he was looking at some of the machines he wouldn't hardly hear what I was saying to him. He didn't say very much but he didn't miss a thing.

I asked him when we started how he happened to be so anxious to see the AMERICAN printed. This is what he said:

"My dad was in Boston about two years ago, and after leaving the station he was passing a newspaper stand. He stepped over and asked the clerk what was the liveliest paper in Boston, and of course the clerk said the AMERICAN. While my dad stayed in Boston he always read the AMERICAN and got so interested in it that he subscribed for a year after he came home and when that year was up, he wrote on to Boston and had his name put on the subscription list for two years more."

That's the way Morris Smith got started reading the AMERICAN and following its funny pictures, especially Mutt 'n Jeff.

Morris said he and his mother are visiting relatives in Dorchester. The next day after they came here Morris was down town to see the AMERICAN. The Boss turned him over to me and if I didn't show him everything in the building it wasn't my fault or his either.

Start on the Top Floor.

First we went up on the top floor and I showed him the circulation department and where his father's name and address—W. Smith, Ruston, La.—are registered on the subscription lists.

Then we peeked into the publisher's and assistant publishers' offices and skipped down to the next floor, where I showed him the paymaster and told him that the men come up here to get their money. We went back to the switchboard where I introduced Morris to the telephone girl and we watched the girl handle the calls and plug in the trunk lines to the different phones in the building. It's a fast job, that switchboard, and the girl has to hustle. The lad from Louisiana said: "She sure can work fast," meaning the telephone girl.

I took him down to the city room on the third floor, and told him this was where I worked. I showed him the artists and he thought the way they draw is wonderful. I suppose it is.

I told him Bud Fisher drew pictures of Mutt 'n Jeff in this room when he was in Boston, and Morris Smith thought it was great.

"I think Mutt 'n Jeff are the funniest pictures I ever saw," he said, "I like them better 'n anything else almost. But I like the other things in the paper, too."

Asks if All Editors Are Great Men. Noonan Is Skeptical.

This Morris Smith from Louisiana reads the editorials in the AMERICAN; anyhow, he says he does.

Down in the Comp. Room.

We went out in the city room and I showed him the editors and reporters and desk-men and told him what they all did and said he ought to be around when things was breaking extra fast and the paper was going to press all the time. He asked me if the editors and reporters wasn't pretty smart, and I told him some of them was.

I took him out in the photo-engraving room and showed him the enlarging cameras and etching machines and explained how they take pictures on metal.

Down in the composing room I had a printer set up "Morris Smith" on a linotype slug just as we do for all visitors, and this lad was tickled and almost burned his hand on the hot slug as they all do, and I showed him why the slug was hot, being made from hot metal. He's going to take that slug home and show it to the kids in Louisiana.

In the press room I couldn't say anything to that chap. All he wanted to do was to stand and watch the presses feed out papers. When we had to go I tapped him on the shoulder three times before he got me. I guess he'd have been there yet if I hadn't moved him along. He just kept standing and looking at the presses.

Last thing I took him upstairs and had one of the photographers take his picture.

This Morris Smith is all right. He didn't ask many questions but I guess he took it all in. One of the last things he said was: "I wish my dad would let me go to work in a newspaper office."

He seemed to think that would be all a boy could want.

The Trip to California Under Special Care

"You feel like sorting out and tying together the memories of this trip and keeping them separate from all other trips." A woman recently said this after a pleasant experience on a Burlington Route Through Tourist Car Excursion party to California. She traveled alone, but met many agreeable people on the car, which was in charge of a special conductor. This good natured official was a well-informed, courteous man, who went all the way through with the party, looking after everyone's comfort and attending to all the little details of the trip. Thus a woman or child in one of these parties can travel with perfect safety and freedom from care. If you would like to know more about the Burlington's comfortable and inexpensive personally conducted excursions, please write me a postal and I'll send you maps, booklets, pictures, etc., by return mail. SUICIDE FROM PORTLAND BOAT

William H. Lowe, seventy years of age, of Buxton, Me., disappeared from the steamer Bay State on the way from Portland, Me., to Boston last night. He left a note in his stateroom indicating that he had committed suicide. The note found read:

"I am William H. Lowe. Am seventy years of age, of Buxton, Me. I have lived long enough, so good-bye to the world."

It is believed that he jumped overboard. Lowe was seen wandering aimlessly about the deck after dark and the officers tried to detract his attention. He would walk over to the rail, look into the water, mutter to himself and then walk back again, shaking his head. Suddenly he disappeared, dropping out of sight of the officers. After a half an hour's search about the decks his stateroom was entered and the note found.

The police of this city are endeavoring to get in touch with some of the man's relatives.

ROCKEFELLER SENDS FLOWERS FOR VISIT OF CARDINAL FARLEY

NEW YORK, June 12.—John D. Rockefeller has sent to Marymount School, in Tarrytown, some of the choicest flowers from his estate, to be used for decorations when Cardinal Farley visits the school today to bless the children and deliver an address and present gold medals to the scholars. Cardinal Farley will go from New York with Mr. James Butler in the latter's automobile.

A distinguished party will go with him, including Monsignor Lavelle, Monsignor Mooney, Monsignor Hayes, r Monsigno Flood, Monsignor Lewis, Very Rev. F. Hanselmann, S. J., provincial; Very Rev. John J. Hughes, supervisor of the Paulist Fathers; Rev. D. O'Connor, O. C. C.; James Ryan, James Butler, Judge Keogh, John D. Crimmins and others.

After blessing the children the cardinal and his party will have breakfast, and he will address the graduates and present the medals. After the exercises Cardinal Farley will be the guest of Mr. Butler at his home in Eastview.

HILL GOING NORTH FOR FISHING TRIP

NEW YORK, June 12.—James J. Hill is in New York on his way to Labrador for his annual fishing trip on the St. Johns River, where he will entertain a party of friends on his yacht Wacouta. They will start for the salmon beds in a few days. Mr. Hill is still reticent as to the changes in the Great Northern's management. He would not discuss his reported resignation as chairman of the board in favor of his son, Louis W. Hill.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

Automobile racing seems to be in popular favor just about this time and there is a number of meets being announced in every section of the country.

That New England is ripe for the sport of the "speed kings" is indicated by the crowd that went to Rockingham Park.

The next speed event in this section of the country will be at Old Orchard Beach, when there will be a three-days' meet beginning July 4. The affair is being managed by Frank Lowry, who already has quite a bunch of entries.

M. F. Chase, New England distributor of the Stutz car, is very enthusiastic over the Old Orchard meet and has arranged with his factory to send two of the cars that were "in the money" at Indianapolis for this event. The drivers that piloted them in the big 500-mile grind will be at the wheel.

G. C. Jessop, who was "the hero" with the crowd at Rockingham, will have a mount at Old Orchard. Jessop has all the ear marks of a speed king. He is daring to the extreme and has more than ordinary skill as a driver. He will probably start in the car he raced at Rockingham but there is a chance that it will be a 1913 Buick.

A. F. Baker, general manager of the Lexington Company of New England, is delighted with the victory the Lexington in the ten-mile race at Rockingham Park last Saturday. It is the first time that the New England agency has ever entered a car in a race of any description.

"The consistent performance of the Lexington car at Rockingham is causing a great deal of comment in automobile circles," says Mr. Baker.

"The ten-mile race was the only race that was really contested from start to finish. The entries included the Stutz, Chadwick Six, the 'Indianapolis' Jackson, the Berkshire, Hudson and Marquette-Buick.

"This race was won by the Lexington in a walk, a stock car from stem to stern, with the smallest piston displacement of any car on the track.

"Once it took the lead it was never headed. From the time it left Boston to the time of its return its hood was never lifted, except to put in oil and neither a wrench nor any other tool was used on it."

C. M. McCreery, manager of the Boston branch of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, is in Akron, Ohio, on a visit to the factory.

Prior to his departure, Manager McCreery had quite a bunch of visitors from the factory here in Boston.

L. D. Rockhill, manager of the Automobile Tire Department of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, has been spending several days here. W. W. Callahan, manager of the Chicago branch, together with his wife, was in Boston attending the national convention of Heavy Hardware Jobbers' Association. George W. Rogers, manager of the credit and collection department, J. A. McMicken, traveling auditor for the Eastern district, and A. R. Bliss, manager of the moulded goods department, were also visitors to the Boston branch.

The Austrian Automobile Club has arranged for a trans-Alpine race commencing next Saturday, starting and ending at Vienna.

The distance to be covered is about 1,500 miles, and the time allowed is a week. There are nineteen passes to be crossed, none less than 3,000 feet high and some as high as 7,000. There are a hundred entrants for the race.

Jim Goggeshall of the Velie Company is back to his old stamping ground at the Boston branch. He has been in the Middle West placing agencies for Morton Luce, who has that territory for the Velie, with headquarters in Chicago.

Mr. Goggeshall has lost none of his Velie enthusiasm. Incidentally he made cities and towns in Ohio that he sold goods in twenty-nine years ago.

TAX COLLECTORS MEET AT GLOUCESTER

GLOUCESTER, June 12.—The Massachusetts Tax Collectors' Association are holding their annual convention here today, the guests of Tax Collector Richard L. Morey. One hundred and fifty dollars was appropriated for the entertainment of the guests by the Municipal Council.

"Little Miss Fix-It" Makes a Big Hit

Blossoms as Summer Show at Tremont

SCENE FROM "LITTLE MISS FIX-IT," IN WHICH ALICE LLOYD IS STARRING

Vaudeville, Dash of Music and Sample Book for Hot Weather Service.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

A little vaudeville here and there, a dash of music arranged for hot weather service and a book written for the simple folk of a great city—and "Little Miss Fix-it" blossomed into a regular honest-to-goodness Summer show.

It all happened at the Tremont last evening, when Miss Alice Lloyd and a band of willing workers arrived simultaneously with the new automatic cooling system.

It wasn't particularly artistic or dramatic—this new cooling system—but you have the word of an old-timer that it fitted nicely into the evening's festivities.

Naturally, one does not demand too much in the shape of entertainment at this season of the year—it is best to be modest in one's expectations, for no matter what you pay the returns are sure to be modest.

Which should be enough to convince you that while "Little Miss Fix-it" is not the most wonderful musical play of the year, it does possess a number of those soothing qualities that go well with the temperature of the period.

Plenty of Fun for All.

Whether "Little Miss Fix-it" will stand the severe acid test usually applied to musical plays is not at all important when you consider that last evening's audience had a very lively session and came all the way through laughing and whistling. That was both a tribute to Miss Lloyd and her company and to the material they worked with.

For the most part the music was ordinary enough to be easily remembered, and those famous specialists of book making, Harry B. Smith, George V. Hobart and William J. Hurlburt re-wrote some of their own jokes so well that they seemed new.

Miss Lloyd, who has always had a way with her when in vaudeville, had it with her last evening. She behaved splendidly and humorously in the romantic role of a general fixer for a number of unhappy families. The evening began with so much domestic misery that you might have suspected tragedy if Miss Lloyd and Lionel Walsh hadn't taken an early hand in things.

Songs Easy to Take.

It is hard to tell just where everything began, but there wasn't any doubt that every situation led up to a song by Miss Lloyd or a few moments of blithering nonsense by Mr. Walsh.

That kept you from giving too much attention to the syndicate book, and becoming involved in its complexities.

To fill the entertainment to utmost measure, Miss Lloyd occupied the centre of the second act with the vaudeville number that has made her a headliner on two continents.

Her songs were saucy and easy to take, and her costuming made up in ample fashion for any lack of shapely display on the part of the chorus. The chorus contented itself with simple and extremely modest frocks—Miss Lloyd did not.

Under the prevailing standard of Summer entertainment "Little Miss Fix-it" will hold its own, and should linger on in prosperity at the Tremont.

It is frivolous enough to satisfy any husband whose wife is in the country, and one or two of the song numbers should soon find their way to solemn execution by the cafe orchestras of the town.

A Good Performance.

In the matter of staging, the piece is perhaps more pretentious than the rising temperature demands, but Messrs. Werba and Luescher are still young enough in the producing business to believe that anything worth doing at all is worth doing well.

They have at least done well by Miss Lloyd in giving her an attractive production.

It should also be repeated that the new automatic cooling system gave a good performance.

DAISY WEDDING AT KINGSTON

PLYMOUTH, June 12.—Miss Bessie Kellogg Faulkner of this town and Elmer Garfield Finney of New York city, formerly of Plymouth, were married in the First Parish Church (Unitarian), at Kingston, at 2:30 this afternoon. The ceremony was a "daisy wedding," that flower being conspicuous in the decorations and on the costumes of the bride and her attendants. Guests from New York, Chicago and Boston, in addition to the county list, made an attendance of more than three hundred at church and reception. The bride is daughter of Mrs. Clara I. and the late James Nelson Faulkner. Mr. Finney was a playmate.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Sidney S. Robbins. Frederick Finney of New York city was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Maud Hallett Marston, Barnstable, and Miss Olive Alden Baker, Kingston. Miss Lucy Vose of Woonsocket, R. I., was maid of honor. The flower girls were Ruth Eleanor Faulkner, Dorchester, and Priscilla Whipple Kellogg, Chicago. The ushers were Nelson A. Faulkner, Dr. Waldo Hayward and George F. Snow of Plymouth and Harry C. Humphrey of Boston. Following a reception at the home of Miss Harriett Adams, the couple left on a ten-day wedding trip. They will live in New York city.

Hasty Note to Maid Caused May Yohe Fuss

Actress Alive and Well at Atlantic City Where She Went With Auto Party.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 12.—May Yohe, the actress, whose mysterious disappearance from New York gave rise to reports that she was a suicide, is alive and well, enjoying a night's rest in the Hotel Wiltshire, this city, before going back to her home town today.

"I'm not a dead one," said she. "This old world looks very good to me. A little hard luck will never get my nerve. I think the papers ought to at least give me advance notice when I'm supposed to die.

"I've just been on a little motor trip with friends through the country."

A picture of health, Miss Yohe came into town with her friends, whose identity she refused to disclose.

The note given out by her maid, which told of Miss Yohe's despondency and desire to end it all, was shown her.

"I left my apartment at 145 West Forty-third street on Thursday about noon," she said. "On the avenue I was hailed by a party of friends. They said they wanted me to go along with them to the country for a motor trip.

"The next thing I did was to drop a note to my maid. Told her that she needn't look for me, because I was going away. Just now I can't recall my exact words, but that was the sense of the message, anyhow. No, I did not say anything about being down and out or anything like it."

METHODISTS PLAN CURB ON DIVORCE

CHICAGO, June 12.—Methodist preachers of Chicago have agreed that hereafter they will not marry divorced persons who refuse to grant ten days for the examination of their records. These preachers believe that this precaution will tend to lessen the number of divorces.

This was decided after the Rev. Francis Miner Moody of San Francisco, field secretary of the California State Commission of marriage and divorce, had told the clergymen that 10,000 divorces have been granted in the United States in the last year.

ALICE THAW'S FORMER HUSBAND NOW RICH

LONDON, June 12.—By the death of his father, the Marquis of Hertford, last March, the Earl of Yarmouth, who succeeds to the title, inherits a personal estate valued, according to the probate, at $495,000. He is left also many valuable heirlooms, including silver mounted claret jugs presented to his father by the Prince of Wales in 1868, a hunting whip given to his ancestor by George IV, and a number of letters from the royal family. The Earl of Yarmouth married Alice Thaw, sister of Harry K. Thaw. She divorced him.

TWO KILLED IN ARMY AIRSHIP

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Crumpling when about seventy-five feet from the ground, a Wright biplane, carrying Lieutenant Leighton W. Hazelhurst, one of the most promising of the young army aviators, and Albert Welch, considered one of the greatest of all professional aviators, dashed to earth at College Park, the United States army aviation field, last evening and killed both of the airmen instantly.

The wrecked biplane pinioned the bodies of both beneath its debris. Both men had ceased breathing when their fellow-aviators, rushing from the nearby hangars, reached them. Young Hazelhurst, who recently joined the squad of airmen, had his neck broken, while the death of Welch had been caused by a fracture of the skull.

Three officers of the United States Army have been killed by aeroplane falls—Lieutenant Thomas Selfridge, Second Lieutenant George M. Kelly and Second Lieutenant Leighton W. Hazelhurst, Jr.

REBELS' EARS CUBAN TROPHIES

SANTIAGO, Cuba, June 12.—Gomez guerillas under Captain Ramon Garriga have beaten off Ivonet's rebels from Guantanamo. But their return here has aroused public anger. They brought as trophies the right ears of eight negro rebels, displayed them, boasted of their gallantry in getting them. This evidence of barbaric warfare practiced in the name of the established government, caused an outcry. Explanation was demanded. "All the guilty will be punished," says General Montegudo. "Only one was guilty and I had him shot," says Captain Garriga. This is known to be false. The one man named is now in jail here.

This gruesome "victory" over the rebels has spread fear of the government and also distrust. Dread of retaliation by the rebels is causing a general flight from the interior to the large centres.

Refugees from Cocacum, sixty miles west of Santiago, report fires and brigandage throughout that territory. Foreign property at Saguadetanamo in the Nipe Bay locality is burning. Rebel bands are operating near Fermeza, near new headquarters of Colonel Lejeune, commander of the district of Santiago.

An epidemic of measles has broken out among the marines landed from the Prairie. Surgeons attribute the cause to canned meats substituted for fresh beef rejected at Philadelphia. All the marines landed are now on duty. The demand in the interior is so urgent that the musicians of the marine band are on guard duty. Anarchy prevails in the entire eastern end of the island. Martial law and the reconcentrado system, inaugurated by Monteagudo, has incensed the rebels to greater acts of violence.

A. A. U. NEXT DATE SET FOR SEPTEMBER 20

Before the sailing for Sweden of the principal members of the Amateur Athletic Union on Friday, it was decided at a meeting of the A. A. U., held in the office of James E. Sullivan, that the National A. A. U. championships would be held on September 20-21, at a city to be decided upon after the return of the Olympic team. The swimming championships will be held during the last weeks of August and the all around championships will be held on Labor Day.

THIEF GETS JEWELS VALUED AT $130,000

LONDON, June 12.—Maurice Reinhold, a member of the well known Paris firm of jewellers, Reinhold Bros., of the Rue Bleue, who is now on a visit to London, has informed the police that while at breakfast his grip in his bedroom at the hotel was cut open with a razor and jewels valued at about $130,000 were stolen. They included a tiara and several pendants of pearls set in necklaces.

FACE COVERED WITH ERUPTION

Very Disfiguring. Skin Itched and Burned. Lost Much Sleep. Purchased Cake of Cuticura Soap and Box of Cuticura Ointment. In One Week Thoroughly Cured.

1 Burrow St., Pittsburg, Pa.—"About a month ago a small sore appeared on the left side of my face and kept growing each day, until it was all over it. The sore was in the form of a blister which broke and out of it came a white sticky matter. This pus kept coming out of the sores and would dry and become scabby. It was so bad that my face was covered with scabs and sores, which were very disfiguring. The skin itched and burned and I lost much sleep.

"It had lasted for about three weeks when I came across the Cuticura advertisement. I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using it noticed an improvement. I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and in only one week I was thoroughly cured. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are invaluable for skin diseases." (Signed) Lawrence Casey, Nov. 23, 1911.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of itching, burning, disfiguring eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough and oily skins, itching, scaly scalps, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails, nor do it so economically. A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

BOOMING G. T. IN BRATTLEBORO

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., June 12.—A grand boom for the Grand Trunk was found by the trade extension committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce when it arrived here, and before it left it did some more booming for the road from the North.

The Boston men were told that the connection that the Grand Trunk proposes to make with Boston is especially pleasing to Brattleboro merchants, as it will give them direct service to Boston with through trains. At present, while there are several five-hour trains daily to New York, there is not one running direct from Brattleboro to Boston.

L. L. Dunham, who is one of the largest wholesale boot and shoe men in the country, said:

"The road certainly deserves the goods. We get three-day shipments from Brattleboro to Mishawaka, Ind., and we hope to get service commensurably as good with Boston when the Grand Trunk reaches that city."

Cover 140 Miles Today.

One hundred and forty miles are ahead of the trade extensionists today. Leaving here at 7 today the party started for Bellows Falls. From there they will go to Rutland and thence to Burlington, where they will stop for the night.

The trade extensionists visited five towns in three States in 11 hours. In the outskirts of Keene, N. H., the pilot car was met by two soldiers, dressed in colonial uniform, who presented the guests a large parchment tied with rawhide cords and containing a message from Mayor Charles Gale Shedd, giving them the freedom of the city. With this came a large ring holding a dozen or more keys ready to unlock to the visitors such institutions as the county jail, the court house, the Keene Bank and the Cheshire cheese, which turned out to be the Cheshire House, where one hundred and fifty of the Keene Commercial Club entertained the fifty Boston tourists.

Grand Reception at Keene.

Although the trade extension committee was received most cordially by trade bodies in Holyoke, Northapmton and Greenfield, where half-hour stops were mad, the Keene reception was the climax for hospitality and generous treatment.

The town band gave a concert in the band stand on the Common and a banquet was served in the dining room of the hotel. Speeches were made by Mayor Shedd and George B. Leighton, to which George B. Ives and Harry Wellman of Boston responded.

All the remarks expressed a most cordial feeling. Vital points were struck by David T. Ives, when he invited a delegation of Keene citizens to attend railroad hearings, which are to take place in Boston after the first of July. He explained that these hearings are not necessarily for the purpose of condemning railroads, but in order to listen to complaints and, if posible, find some remedy for present defects. The hearings, he said, were to be conducted by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"Keep Your Eye on Keene."

George Leighton gave a brief of the possibilities for development about Keene. "It will be well to keep your eyes on the city of Keene," he said. "We are developing the very best kind of industries which attract skilled mechanics and good citizens. Our great needs now are the conservation of all the natural water power, the reforestering of all the waste lands—of which there are thousands of acres—the increase of the poultry industry and the building of a State road to connect with Boston direct."

The whole trip, which, on its surface appears to be a lark and a picnic, is nevertheless, striking at the fundamental and vital principle of co-operation and mutual understanding between New England towns and Boston.

A run from Keene to Brattleboro, by the way of the beautiful Spofford Lake, and a cordial reception in Brattleboro by the Brattleboro Board of Trade, followed by a supper with the ladies of the Eastern Star as hostesses, ended a memorable and delightful day, and one which the Boston gentlemen will not forget soon.

GRAND TRUNK MAKING RHODE ISLAND DIRT FLY IN SEVEN PLACES NOW

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 12.—Dirt is flying in seven different places on the Grand Trunk's roadbed in Rhode Island. A big steam shovel is at work in South Providence, between Eddy and Rugby streets, and eight houses on the north side of Aldrich street must be moved to make way for it. On Broad street, Providence, a gang of workmen is digging a tunnel under the street, just south of the Harbor Junction branch tracks. Another big steam shovel is at work on Eddy street, near Ernest street, and already has scooped out a ditch ten feet deep and more than a hundred feet long.

Four steam shovels are at work between Woonsocket and this city. One is at Woonsocket, another at Saylesville, a third near the Moshassuck Valley Railroad's tracks and another at Lonsdale.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

Copper Issues a Little Firmer in Quiet Market

By W. H. ROSS.

STATE STREET, June 12.—Midday—Trading was rather restricted in most stock markets today at the start. In Boston there was a firm tone and a small volume of business. Coppers ranged a little higher as a rule, although the demand was limited. During the first hour Isle Royale, Superior, Butte & Superior, Centennial, Mason Valley and Miami made fractional gains. There were small recessions in North Butte, Amalgamated and Copper Range.

The New York market rather improved in tone. But most professional traders in that and the local market seemed to take a bearish view of the immediate situation.

It is understood on good authority in New York there will be no increase in the dividend rate of the American Beet Sugar Company in the near future.

President Theodore N. Vail of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, home from Europe, says: "If people in this country who are talking pessimistically would go to Europe and look over the situation there they would find conditions which they could really call bad, and with no outlook for immediate improvement."

New York Trading Slack.

There was not much movement to the New York market at the start and prices were irregular. The Pujo committee which is investigating the Money Trust, put restrictions upon trading by summoning a number of brokers who contribute to market activity before the inquisitors. The trust probers want to learn the relations of financial institutions and stock traders. The heaviness of American Can was deemed due to the expectation that Daniel G. Reid will be asked by this committee why that issue has been so active of late.

The fluctuations during early trading in such leaders as Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Lehigh Valley, Amalgamated and Steel were aall fractional and of no particular significance.

The Curb tone was fairly steady.

The price trend for American issuese was uncertain in London, but Canadian Pacific was stronger there and in the New York market.

Copper Selling and Mining.

The copper metal market continues on a firm basis around 17½ cents a pound for electrolytic and with the demand much smaller than it was earlier in the month. Strikes at refineries is the latest peril presented to production. The high price of the metal has inspired workmen with the idea they should benefit as well as stockholders in the renewed prosperity for this industry. If production is diminished of course the price of copper will go still higher. The consumers have more to fear at present from strikes than producers. If the latter raise wages, buyers of the metal will have it added to their bill.

In a few remarks about Amalgamated, Thompson, Towle & Co. say: "We believe that the next Anaconda dividend, to be declared the latter part of this month, will be at the rate of $3 per share, an increase of $1 per annum, and that the Amalgamated dividend to be declared in July will be increased from $4 to $6 basis. From the best information we can gather we do not believe that there is now any immediate prospect of a dissolution of the Amalgamated Copper Co., though such a plan has been more or less under consideration."

The Boston News Bureau says a Quincy Mining Co. director thinks that if copper continues at 17 cents his company's next divident will be $1.75 a share or at the rate of $7 a year.

Coal Roads Will Not Join.

Anthracite railroad presidents will decline the invitation of the New York Merchants' Association to join in the investigation being conducted by a committee of that body into the advance in the price of domestic sizes of hard coal. President Baer of the Reading talked with heads of other anthracite carriers, and it is understood that it was decided to give the committee no information as to why the price of the fuel of the poor had been put 25 cents a ton higher. One coal operator is quoted as saying: "The merchants' association appears to be a self-appointed board of mussers. There is not a merchant in that body whose merchandise has advanced less in price in ten years than anthracite."

Edward B. Sturges, principal owner of one of the biggest mines in the Schuylkill region, says colliery profits are small and that an increase in the cost of production is the reason for asking the consumer more per ton. He said: "Nearly everything used in mining has increased in cost, and still more important is the fact that veins have grown thinner and deeper and more expensive to work." He said concerning wholesale and retail coal dealers: "These gentlemen, as we have reason to believe, generally realize far more than the profit that the mine owner gets, although they have an investment of only a small percentage of the amount the latter must expend on his plant."

Financial News in Brief.

The House committee which will conduct a new investigation of the Beef Trust will seek to learn where the Sherman act was deficient in the prosecution of that monopoly and the reason why the price of meat has gone so high. It will be assisted by the Department of Justice. Out of this investigation may come an amended law which will enable a Federal prosecutor to do more to get a conviction than was the case when the beef barons were tried in Chicago. The investigators comprise Representative Henry D. Clayton of Alabama (chairman), Edwin L. Webb of North Carolina, Charles C. Carlin, Virginia; John C. Floyd, Arkansas; John W. Davis, West Virginia; John A. Sterling, Illinois; Reuben O. Moon, Pennsylvania, and George W. Norris of Nebraska.

In the face of government crop report, which had a bearish stock market effect, James J. Hill and President Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific road express optimistic views. "The crop outlook," said Mr. Hill, "is better than for two or three years." President Elliott talked conservatively, but remarked: "Everything now depends upon the crops and everyone is looking to the Autumn to show a big improvement. Roads are preparing for heavy tonnage."

London financiers are afraid that Canadians are overdoing such financing as issuing bonds and that the present boom in the Dominion will be followed by a collapse which will impair the credit of Canada for many years. It is said that the London market never had so many "undigested securities" as at present. The scant demand there for the recent issue of New York city bonds was significant of something.

James J. Hill denies that a branch of the Great Northern system will be built from Winnipeg to the coast and also that he is thinking of having a direct line to San Francisco. He is in New York for a few days and will soon start for New Brunswick on a fishing trip.

Steel manufacturers have received a smaller volume of orders so far in June than came to them in May and it is questioned if the United States Steel Corporation shows much increase in unfilled tonnage at the end of this month. But May and June business was taken at higher prices for products and manufacturers will make more money out of lessened business.

During May the ingot production of the United States Steel Corporation aggregated 1,485,000 tons while that of finished products was 1,113,750. The daily average of the former was 55,000 tons and of the latter, 11,250.

During 1911 the Greene-Cananea companies produced 44,897,466 pounds of fine copper against 45,680,145 in 1910. The combined income statement for 1911 shows net earnings of $1,307,131, as compared with $1,184,750 for 1910. The net profit is $1,026,951, equal to $1.02 on 1,000,000 shares outstanding.

No changes in the Chicago and Alton directorate are expected before September. The members of the present board are T. P. Shonts, James Stuart Mackie, F. H. Davis, Thomas H. Hubbard, Henry E. Huntington, William G. Bierd, Edward Tilden, John J. Mitchell, Joe [illegible], P. P. Frazier and Samuel Insull. While it is understood that the Union Pacific is to be strongly represented on the Alton board within a few months it is not believed that the Harriman line will take over entire control of the other road.

The American Woolen Company did not lose so much money during the Lawrence strike that its stockholders will suffer. The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. has been declared on the preferred stock. It is payable on July 15 on stock of June 21 record, and books will be closed on the latter date and re-opened on July 8.

President Elliott of the Northern Pacific says there are no plans pending for any immediate financing of great consequence for his road.

The earnings of the Edison Company of Boston for May showed the largest increase for any month this year; gross and net increasing 12.59 per cent. and 17.96 per cent. respectively. In the previous month gross earnings increased $40,877, or 9.3 per cent., while net increased $21,334, or 8.38 per cent.

GOETHE MEMORIAL STATUE IS NUDE FIGURE OF POET

By CHARLES HENRY MELTZER.

MUNICH, June 12.—The plaster cast of Professor Hermann Hahn's great Goethe memorial statue ordered for Chicago is now virtually completed and awaits the inspection of the president and vice-president of the Lincoln Park Committee in the professor's Munich studio.

The standing figure of the poet, sixteen feet or more in height, is shown in classic nudity, the right foot raised and resting lightly on a rock. On the right arm sits the presentment of an eagle, possibly symbolizing German thought, though some may see in it a symbol of German-American sentiment. From the left shoulder hangs a little drapery.

SHAW HELD IN JAIL UNABLE TO RAISE $12,000 FOR BAIL

Waiting for some one to come forward with $12,000 bail Arthur Willis Shaw is in the Charles Street Jail. Mrs. Georgia M. Stuart, who was found guilty of having received the property which the jury has found he stole, was allowed her liberty until the day sentence is to be imposed upon her, her bail remaining at the same figure $4,500.

It is believed that a new trial will be asked, but little success is anticipated, as the tendency of the courts is to allow a verdict to stand unless there has been a complete rout of justice with no evidence to support the finding of the jury.

HEN LAYS ONE EGG INSIDE ANOTHER

CENTRAL VILLAGE, Ct., June 12.—Arthur Davis, a poultry fancier here, has hens that are some on laying. One turned out an egg within an egg, the queerest thing ever seen in the egg line. The membrane of the outer egg was perfect, but minus the shell; the inner shell was O. K. and a good sized finished product.

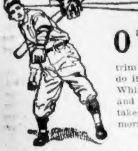
RILEY'S COLUMN



OFF with your hats to Jake Stahl! He has Jimmie Callahan headed for the tall Michigan uncut. It is altogether one best bet that the Red Sox will trim the Browns once more this afternoon, and if they do it makes no difference whether the Yankees beat the White Sox or not. In fact, even if the Red Sox lose and the White Sox win this afternoon, Jake Stahl will take his triumphant leaders into his own home town tomorrow in the forefront of the American league.

* * *

THIS is the way the count stood this morning:

	Won	Lost	Percent.
Boston...........	31	18	.633
Chicago..........	31	20	.608

If the Red Sox win and the White Sox win this afternoon, the percentage will be........................Boston, .640; Chicago, .615

If the Red Sox win and the White Sox lose, it will be Boston, .640; Chicago, .596

If the Red Sox lose and the White Sox win, it will be Boston, .620; Chicago, .615

If both lose, it will be........................Boston, .620; Chicago, .596

IT'S funny, when you think of it. Jake Stahl, a Chicago lad, taking a victorious New England team into his own town to fight out the American league leadership with a Chicago team headed by Jimmie Callahan, a New England lad. And both of them "come backs"! Well, when Chicago came East last month, the situation was reversed. So when Sox meet Sox in Chicago tomorrow, there ought to be, well, what Sherman said war is.

* * *

TEDDY ROOSEVELT'S quarrel with Bill Taft won't be in it in Chicago tomorrow. Betting's a million to a shoestring most of Chicago won't know there is a National convention.

* * *

CHARLIE HALL, alias the "Mad Mexican," alias the "Ventura Kid," alias the "Sea Lion," alias the "Human S. O. S.," made a good job of yesterday's win over St. Louis, 4 to 0. Word comes from Browntown that Eddie Cicotte will be given another trial this afternoon, and that Joe Wood will be saved for the opener in Chicago tomorrow. When the rivals last clashed here Wood was thrown into a St. Louis game, and was not saved for the White Sox opener. Jake Stahl following the theory that Wood against St. Louis is a game on ice, and a sure game from St. Louis is quite as good as a doubtful one from Chicago. Good dope!

* * *

BUT in that case Stahl worked Larry Pape in the opening Chicago game and, notwithstanding the Red Sox fought like demons they were beaten. Today Pape looks better than he did then, and Stahl may use him instead of Cicotte today, still saving Wood for tomorrow. In any case, the Boston leader is not exactly hard pressed for pitchers.

* * *

JIMMIE CALLAHAN will save "Big Ed" Walsh for tomorrow's opener, and he will need everything Walsh can produce, for the Yankees took a 6 to 3 fall out of the White Sox yesterday, and they'll be due to do the best they can before the immense crowd that will turn out for tomorrow's game.

* * *

INCIDENTALLY, did you notice that "Hub" Perdue and the Pilgrims put it over on the Cardinals again yesterday, 2 to 1? When they tighten up and stay tightened, Kling's team can play baseball and that is what they have done the past two days.

* * *

ANOTHER OBSERVATION: The Senators beat the Tigers again yesterday, 3 to 2, making all three runs in a whirlwind ninth inning finish. While Stahl and Callahan are fighting it out in Chicago, Clark Griffith is likely to come along quietly and steal the lead away from both of them, so while you're watching the bulletins from Chicago, don't forget to notice what Washington is doing.

Holy Cross Opposes Harvard on Diamond

Harvard and Holy Cross will clash on the diamond for the second time this season at Soldiers Field this afternoon.

With one victory tucked away, the Worcester boys are pulling hard for another, but Coach Sexton has different views on that same matter, and will send in his best available twirler, "Jack" Bartholf, to hold down the visiting sluggers.

The first game between these teams was a wierd affair and was lost by Harvard after it had been apparently won. Today's clash bids fair to be nip and tuck from start to finish.

CAR STRIKE BREAKS UP POLICE LEAGUE

The Massachusetts Police Baseball League has been compelled to suspend its schedule on account of the Elevated strike.

Cambridge, Somerville, Newton, Chelsea and Everett are among the cities affected by the strike, and owing to the extra duty imposed on the officers, their superiors have found it impossible to grant them any time off to play baseball. They are also forbidden to leave their respective cities during the strike.

Secretary Henry T. Parsons of the league said that the schedule would be rearranged as soon as the strike is settled.

RED SOX TAKE A FIRMER GRIP

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—The Red Sox took a firmer grip on first place in the American League race, by shutting out the St. Louis Browns, yesterday, through the masterly pitching of Charley Hall.

This gave Boston three straight games here, with six out of eleven games played on the trip, after a poor start at Cleveland.

After the game today the Red Sox will leave for Chicago, where they look for exciting times with big Ed Walsh back in the Chicago lineup.

Manager Stahl was bent on keeping his charges in the lead yesterday, so the California crack was sent after the game and turned in a superb performance.

Only nine Browns reached first base and but one got as far as third. This was in the seventh, when the locals pulled off a double steal and put themselves in a position to take the lead with a base hit with two down, but the Ventura boy forced Pratt to hit to Stahl, who made a clever play of a hard drive.

LYNN TEAM HOME.

The Lynn team of the Greater Boston League is home now for the remainder of the week and Jim Connor is confident of regaining the lead in the pennant race, as his club has been practically invincible on its home grounds thus far this season.

PLAY ON ONE FIELD.

It isn't once in a lifetime that baseball fans are afforded the opportunity of seeing an entire league in action on one field and in one afternoon. That's what will happen at the Malden High School field on the afternoon of June 17, the Greater Boston League furnishing the fireworks.

SENATORS GET PELTY.

DETROIT, Mich., June 12.—Manager Griffith of the Washington baseball team announced here the purchase of Barney Pelty, the St. Louis Browns' pitcher, on whom waivers were recently asked. He will join the team at once.

Baseball Notes

The Giants have stolen more than twice as many bases as the next best base stealing club in the National League. Considering that they also lead in total hits, total runs, total home runs, total two baggers and total victories, we have a good explanation, without attempting any subtle analysis of why they lead the race.

The question of Sunday ball in Washington is being agitated. Griffith and Ban Johnson have had a conference on the subject.

It will worry O'Day to decide what to do with his outfield when Bates is fit to resume play. Marsans is a fine hitter and base runner, getting to Mathewson and Marquard for six hits. He also is aggresive.

Jake Daubert is leading in the Brooklyn' voting contest for the most popular player on the Superba club, with Rucker second, Wheat third and Northern fourth.

An umpire working in a game at Poughkeepsie recently suffered an attack of apoplexy, brought on by excitement. Umpiring is no job for those apoplectically inclined.

A lady in the Highland stands at New York was beaned by a foul ball. Attendants rushed up and asked her if she wanted water. "No, I want a new hat," was her essentially feminine and practical reply.

Old "Cy" Will Pitch for His "First Love"

NEW ATHENS, O., June 12.—Old "Cy" Young will get back into the harness again tomorrow during the commencement day exercises of his Alma Mater.

"Grand Old Man" of the twirling art will be on the mound for his "first love," the Franklin College team, when they play the Dennison Athletic Club. Young's debut as a pitcher of note was made with the ball team of Franklin College, where he attended many years ago.

Young is still remembered by the residents of this section, and when he does box duty for the college team, he is expected to have for an audience several thousands of the citizens of this section. As an old professor said today: "Cy will be a greater drawing card than the class that is to be graduated."

Get a Free Ticket To the Ball Game

Baseball "fans" attention!

The AMERICAN is going to give another free ticket for the Greater Boston League with every copy of next Sunday's editions. The ticket will be good for admission at any of the league games of the new league, except those on Saturdays or holidays, if presented by a boy or girl under sixteen years of age.

Hundreds of youthful baseball "fans" have witnessed some great games in the Greater Boston League during the past few weeks at the expense of the AMERICAN. The new league is composed of evenly balanced teams, and there are many sterling players in the lineups of the different teams. Get busy now and order your Sunday AMERICAN in advance.

PILGRIMS AFTER THE THIRD GAME

Through the steady pitching of Hub Perdue and the right combination of hitting, the Pilgrims managed to make it two straight wins over the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday at the Walpole Street park. Today the locals will go after the visitors with another example of the fighting spirit, in the hope of making up lost ground and capturing the third game from them.

Yesterday's game was a good one. It was a hard fought battle from the beginning and required ten innings to reach a decision. To make Perdue's joy all the greater, he had the honor of scoring the winning run.

Hub is not a Craig or a Drew, when it comes to sprinting, but the way he galloped around the bases in the tenth inning trying to make the plate on Eddie McDonald's savage triple to right will long be remembered by the fans.

Stovall Out to Secure Pitchers

◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆

Team Is Playing Wretched Ball

WAIVERS have been asked on several members of the Browns, largely pitchers, and if any of the American League managers care to take over the St. Louisans, Manager Stovall will be willing to talk trade.

While not mentioning any names, Stovall says he realizes there are some players now with the club who would probably do better elsewhere. He is eager to hand transfers to these men, but will not pass them over to other clubs for a cash consideration. He will insist on players only being in the deal.

"I believe the fans get tired of coming out and seeing the same bunch of pitchers beaten every day," said Stovall. "That's the reason I'm strong for the newcomers and any time a youngster shows me he has any good baseball in his system, I'll let him have a chance to display it.

"I am open to make any trade that will help the St. Louis club. I will go so far as to say that waivers have been asked on some of the men. That really doesn't mean that they are through as big leaguers, but if they are desired by any other manager he will have an opportunity to take them over by talking trade."

If any trading is done it will be managed by Stovall. Owner Hedges has turned over that end of the game to the new boss and will sanction any trade or deal that the ex-Nap negotiates. During a conference between the manager and club owner, Stovall said he would like to get rid of a couple of Brownies.

"You're the manager, and if you think it will help the club, go ahead," said Hedges, "and if you think a quick transfer will help, we'll get busy with the wires immediately."

FOR the first time since he has been a member of the Cleveland club, Nap Lajoie had the experience of seeing an opposing pitcher pass his predecessor at bat so he could take a chance at Lajoie. That happened in the fourth inning the other day in a game against New York.

There were two out with Graney on third and Olson on second. Jackson had already procured a triple and a single. Quinn piched carefully to him this time. He soon found himself in the hole and rather than try to get the ball over for Joe, deliberately piched two wide ones and passed him, evidently preferring to take a chance on Lajoie.

All Larry did was to drive in three runs.

IT should encourage F. Wildfire Schulte, late home-run king of the Cubs, to know that only two or three games have been played by National League clubs at the Polo Grounds in New York this season in which no noble athlete added a four-base blow to his batting record. Schulte, who made home runs on the slightest provocation, or none at all, last season, is not doing so well this year.

As a matter of fact, he held off so long that some folks got to thinking he never would make another. He finally did crash in with one, though several weeks overdue. Since then his home run average has been mighty pale, almost anemic.

Unofficial, but reliable, statistics are available which show that thirteen out of fourteen National League games at the Polo Grounds this year have been featured by home run clouts, eleven of the four-ply smashes easing off bats swung by Giants.

Merkle, Doyle and Meyers have each made two and Fletcher, Snodgrass, Devore, Wilson and Herzog one each. Visiting athletes who have relieved their seething souls of circuit clouts are Titus and Downey.

Only five of the Giants' four-ply smashes have drifted into the stands, Fletcher, Snodgrass, Merkle, Herzog, Doyle and Meyers all making the complete circuit on wallops that landed on the playing field.

Merkle, Meyers and Downey have all flipped 'em into the left field bleachers, and that's far enough from the plate to entitle any one to all the bases there are. Jack Murray is the only Giant regular, and Becker and Shafer the only near-regulars who have not hit homers on the home grounds.

ONE of the "big noises" in the American League today is Clark Griffith and his Washington club. Starting by shutting out Boston in the afternoon game of Memorial Day, Griffith piloted his club to eleven straight victories, numbering among his victims Boston once, St. Louis four times, Chicago four times and Detroit thrice. The Nationals are literally setting the league on fire. They caused a panic in the Windy City. After the Athletics departed from Chicago, Callahan expected to make up lost ground at the expense of Washington. Then it happened. Washington won four in succession from Chicago. Then they shifted operations to Detroit. Back home the Summer inhabitants of the Capital are lying awake nights figuring what to do with the pennant if brought home by Griffith. Some of the more erratic have started a petition to have it fly from the dome of the Capitol. Others want it perched on the top of the Washington monument. So it always goes when a team is on a winning streak.

SAY SWEEPER II. 'DOPED' IN DERBY

LONDON, England, June 12.—What promises to be the worst scandal of the British turf in ten years became known today when the sporting weekly, the Looking Glass, announced that Sweeper II., the American colt which started favorite in the recent Derby, was doped before the race.

A significant fact in connection with the dope story was learned by THE AMERICAN correspondent, that H. B. Duryea dismissed Danny Maher who rode Sweeper II. and engaged Frankie O'Neill, another American boy, to pilot Sweeper II. in the remainder of his stake engagements.

It will be remembered in the story of the race published in the Boston AMERICAN that a note was sounded indicating that something was wrong with the showing of the Duryea colt.

An investigation shows that the opinion of a large number of racing men Sweeper II. was doped. Duryea's trainer is unable to account for the miserable showing of the colt.

It was certain that when Sweeper II. left his stable for the big race he was never fitter. When he returned to his stall after the Derby the colt was listless and feeble.

Wide Awakes and Limits at It Again

On Bunker Hill Day the Limits and Wide Awakes of Somerville play their fifth annual baseball game. Two and two is the count, each team having won two games, and there promises to be plenty of fireworks in the rubber contest.

The Limits are married men and the Wide Awakes single men. All are members of the Clarendon Club of Somerville. The game will start promptly at 2 o'clock on Somerville field.

The honor of winning the game alone is not enough, as the winner will come into possession of the J. Frank Mixer Cup. Before the game the men will form in line and march to the grounds.

Gardner Confident of Winning

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Both Boxers Reported in Shape

By JACK CONWAY

EDDIE M'GOORTY, the best middleweight in the Middle West, and Jimmy Gardner, the pride of Lowell, clash in a near middleweight championship bout at the Pilgrim A. A. tonight. The men are scheduled to box twelve rounds to a decision and the fans are sure to witness some great fighting before the curtain drops at the end of the final round.

McGoorty is one of the classiest 158 pounders in the world. There is no denying this fact. The Westerner has engaged in over sixty contests during his career in the squared circle and has met defeat but once.

The Oshkosh battler is but forty-two years of age and has an excellent chance to annex the middleweight championship. Since last September he has been performing like a whirlwind and has scored victories over Morrow, Kelly, Capoul, Howard and Dillon. McGoorty recently met Bob Moha in New York and is a bigger man. Forkins claims that he punched holes in the Milwaukee "cave dweller" and that he would have scored a knockout if the latter had not persisted in stalling throughout the greater part of the bout.

Forkins believes that Frank Klaus is the only man in the world who stands a chance of beating his protege. McGoorty has been trying to get a date with Klaus for the past six months but has experienced but little success.

The Pittsburg "Bearcat" has a wholesome dread for the boy from the Middle West and has evaded meeting him on three different occasions.

KLAUS was offered a date with McGoorty on the Coast this Spring but he refused to have anything to do with Eddie. He at first demanded that McGoorty make 158 pounds ringside, but when the latter agreed to make this weight Klaus suddenly packed his grip and started East.

McGoorty was undaunted and he also soon took a trailer for New York where Klaus was planning to display his pugilistic wares. Tim Hurst, who at the time was matchmaker of Madison Square Garden, offered to arrange a bout between Klaus and McGoorty, but the Pittsburg boxer preferred to do business with Jack Dillon. A Pittsburg club also tried to get Klaus to box McGoorty, but again the "wild man" of the middleweight division turned down the offer.

Klaus is now in Europe. He is billed to box George Carpentier, the sensational French middleweight, on June 24. McGoorty has received an offer of $5,000 to meet the winner of the contest some time during August and he will probably accept. Eddie is also wanted to mix things with some prominent middleweight at the Dublin Horse Show in two weeks.

THE western whirlwind is in excellent condition for his bout with the Lowell star. He has been training for several weeks at Rye Beach, New York, with Tommy Gary, a Chicago middleweight who is in Forkins' stable, Johnny Coulon and Bombardier Wells.

McGoorty is a fast, shifty boxer and every bit as clever as Gardner. Jimmy usually doesn't experience a great deal of difficulty in vanquishing the sluggers, but in McGoorty he will be pitted against a man who has outpointed some of the cleverest middleweights in the game. Besides being a speedy boxer McGoorty packs a stringing wallop in either hand. It is claimed that he is a harder hitter than Frank Klaus and New England fans know that the Pittsburg man is a regular champion when it comes to landing K. O. punches.

GARDNER is reported as being in the pink of condition. He has been in strict training for over a month. Therefore the crowd should witness a bout replete with excitement. There are few middleweights in the world who have anything on Gardner when he is right, as one Frank Klaus will testify.

The Lowell boxer retired from the ring about a year ago and entered business in his home town. Gardner experienced some tough luck in his business venture and lost a great deal of money. He is now almost "broke" and is out to win another fortune in the ring.

Jimmy is confident that he will be returned the winner over McGoorty. If he triumphs over the Westerner he will be in big demand by boxing promoters throughout the country.

Johnny Mooney is planning to give every prominent middleweight in the land an opportunity to prove his worth at the Pilgrim Club. He hopes to decide who is the real king pin of the 158-pounders within a year.

THREE good six-round preliminaries have been arranged. Joe Nelson of Lawrence and Charles Silverio of Beverly clash in the final preliminary. Silverio is the former national amateur heavyweight champion. This will be his first professional bout. Nelson is a rugged performer and unless Silverio shows remarkable form he will be lucky if he is not knocked out.

Frankie Mack of Beachmont and Walter Watts should put up a slashing mill. Mack is one of the best preliminary boys that has been seen at a local club in many moons. He is a clever little boxer, can hit hard and is as game as they make them.

The other preliminary will be between Jack Manley of Charlestown and Tommy Flanagan. Both boys are featherweights and have fine records.

Princess Todd May Be the Trotting Queen

CLEVELAND, June 12.—While there are many great trotters and pacers now working out over the North Randall track, it is doubtful if any appear to have a better chance to walk off with the long end of purses than Princess Todd, 2:12, George Todd, 2:09¼, Nutmoor, 2:06½, and Native King.

Native King and Princess Todd are both candidates for the big three-year-old futurities and many believe that they will be the two to fight it out for first money. At the present time Princess Todd looks like one of the greatest trotters in the history of the sport and many believe that she will some day be hailed as the queen of trotters.

George Todd took his record as a three-year-old. Now, at the age of five, he is being prepared for another campaign and is going in a form that makes his chance seem extremely bright.

Nutmoor was one of the best of pacers of the twice-arounds in 1911 and should prove to be just as big a factor in the fast pacing events this summer when he stacks up against the Grand Circuit cracks.

Ed Geers and Horses Now at Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 12.—Ed Geers has arrived here with his string of trotting and pacing Grand Circuit candidates, with only those intimately connected with him knowing just how much speed there is in the bunch.

When asked what his favorites were for the big stakes this Summer and how they had been going the answer was:

"Every horse I will enter will be my favorite. I have been working miles anywhere from 2:10 to 2:15 down at Memphis. I wouldn't like to say, or in fact I couldn't say, which horses have worked the fastest miles."

Geers intimated in his abbreviated conversation that he was particularly sweet on the way Dudie Archdale, The Assessor, Eva Cord and Dorris Medium, trotters, had been going, and that Akar, Iva Chimes, Hal Fuller and a youngster named The Assessor, all pacers, had pleased him in workouts.

Geers brought with him John Benyon and Arthur Morehead, trainers. The Geers string includes:

Trotters—Dudie Archdale, The Assessor, Fred Johnson, Funny Crank, Powers, Eva Cord, Bergen and Dorris Medium.

Pacers—Akar, Iva Chimes, Fort Tracker, Hal Fuller and The Assessor.

The Making of a Pretty Girl

THE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE AND THE VACATION QUESTION.

By Margaret Hubbard Ayer

M[illegible] graduated [illegible] there [illegible] know [illegible] that [illegible] know [illegible]

But [illegible] afraid it's hopeless. She knows everything there is to know and she [illegible]

[illegible] of pretty girl [illegible] of the school and [illegible] speech with [illegible] applause [illegible] pretty girl, and [illegible] remember.

[illegible] was the graduation of the girl [illegible] and [illegible] flowers [illegible] hoped [illegible] would be the first of many graduation days.

"Too many young people feel that once they have graduated that settles the matter. Nothing [illegible] but the real [illegible] graduate [illegible] life is a [illegible]

I want to [illegible] pretty girl. Whatever points of perfection you have attained don't be willing to stop there.

Became Very Dull

So many girls graduate into the state of matrimony for instance, and then their effort ceases. In a few years they are [illegible] wives and one wonders what any man ever saw in them.

Others [illegible] From that time [illegible] they [illegible] content to be just business girls, [illegible] thought of self improvement [illegible] of work.

Again, others, the pretty home-staying girls, are satisfied to be just pretty, and think that prettiness means a good complexion, large eyes, nice teeth and hair.

Well, it does mean that, up to the age of sixteen, perhaps, but after that it means ever so much more, for [illegible] girl is building her character [illegible] for him who reads to run away [illegible] to love.

It takes a good deal more than mere physical perfection to make a pretty girl.

The pretty girl must master her moods, because a mood, if it's an unpleasant one, often clings and becomes a bad habit that is enough to spoil the prettiest girl in the world.

Take all those petty habits, despondency, peevishness, even laziness. Such things can be conquered by a determined effort of the will and physical exercise.

Rules for Laziness

When you wake up feeling depressed or lazy, jump up, take a quick sponge bath and make yourself sing if you've the slightest talent that way.

Hurry with your dressing and tidying and get out into the open air or occupy yourself with something beside your own [illegible] some piece of hard work you have shirked along up to now. Plunge [illegible] and get it done. Learn to dis[illegible] your moods in this way, and every time you do it you will find it easier the next time.

While one sort of graduate simply "stays put" naturally, the other kind overworks, putting too much strain on brain and muscle.

[illegible] the girl who says she doesn't need a vacation, or who spends her vacation in such a strenuous pursuit of pleasure that she returns completely frazzled out.

Vacation is a very important thing. So is Sunday.

One Day of Rest

The [illegible] to take one day of rest in each week is being slighted more and more [illegible] one thinks of the hard work we all have enjoying ourselves on Sunday, and many people, especially young girls, refuse to realize that the Summer vacation is the time to recuperate, not to spur one's tired body to further feats of physical endurance.

Whether you are spending your Summer vacation at home or in the mountains, at the seaside or visiting and traveling try to make the time one of physical benefit, mental change and rest.

Make an effort to be out of doors whenever you can and have clothing of the simple sensible kind, the sort you don't need to worry about.

Take an extra allowance of sleep. Few young girls sleep enough anyhow. Try a nap in the middle of the day. If you are of the energetic type make yourself lazy. If you are indolent use the Summer months to learn some kind of profitable form of exercise or a course of study which will be useful to you in the Fall.

Remember that the girl of eighteen is not as strong as the normally healthy woman of thirty, and that she should conserve her strength and energy during the Summer and lay in a supply of health for the Winter months.

If possible I advise her not to get tanned, but to wear hats and veils, even if they are a nuisance, not so much because of the complexion as because of the eyes. The glaring sunlight is bad for the eyes, and baking at the sun makes early wrinkles and ugly faces. Bathe the face in a basin of lukewarm water with a teaspoonful of baking soda for prickly heat or Summer rash. Put a good handful of the soda into the bathtub. The red spots will heal quickly.

THE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE

Not to Be Caught

JOHNSON is a mean man.

A favorite dodge of his is to try to get free advice from his doctor, but the man of medicine is becoming too sharp for him.

"Good afternoon, doctor!" he began gushingly. "By the way, I know a man who is suffering agonies from neuralgia. At times it is so bad he simply howls with pain. What would you do in that case?"

"Well, I don't know," was the doctor's prompt reply. "I suppose I should howl with pain, too."

HOW I KILLED MY SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

Even After Beauty Doctors, Electricity, Powders, Pastes and Liquid Depilatories Failed.

(From a Correspondent.)

"Killed" seems a strong word to use, but that is just what I wanted to do to the hair that disfigured my face and arms—I wanted to kill it root and all, so that it would never live again. It spoiled my looks, made me seem old and masculine, and hence interfered with both social and business success.

I tried the ordinary dissolvents and depilatories [illegible] for them [illegible] even [illegible] from [illegible] specialists [illegible] It was [illegible] would have [illegible] and cost, had I not found that the needle (electrolysis) often leaves scars that are even worse than the disfiguring hair itself.

So I gave up hope and in despair resigned myself to being called the "hairy lady" for the rest of my life, until a travelled friend persuaded me to try a new and easy method learned from the Japanese. In it I found a way to actually kill the hair, and I permanently removed the superfluous growth, at the same time improving my complexion.

Having myself experienced so many previous disappointments, I have decided to forget my own sensitiveness, and for the benefit of my sex I will gladly explain to others the method which cured me. It is nothing like the powder, paste and liquid preparations that simply burn off the exposed hair and ruin the skin. It is a discovery only recently introduced into this country and so simple that any woman can use it in the privacy of her own room, and in only a few minutes time.

Many friends have said to me, "It seems too good to be true," but the test proved it true both for myself [illegible] as well. If you will write me for full particulars, enclosing stamp for reply, [illegible] in plain, sealed envelope, you [illegible] enjoy the same happy experience, for I will tell you fully and freely about this wonderful discovery so you can be just as successful as I was. Please state whether Mrs. or Miss. Address Mrs. [illegible] Osgood, Suite 118 B. E. 124 East 27th St., New York City.

SPECIAL ENDORSEMENT. As the method above referred to has been endorsed by doctors, true specialists and many other publishers, we advise all readers thus afflicted to take advantage of Mrs. Osgood's offer and write her at once at above address.

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

LYSANDER JOHN APPLETON'S recent excursions [illegible] joy of Being Adam have convinced him that a great injustice has been done that well known man.

With a desire to [illegible] right before posterity, and to make all the amends that can be made at this late day, he has revised a certain little incident in the Bible.

"It is time," he said, "that some one came to the defense of Adam. And by Adam I mean [illegible] poor downtrodden and [illegible] sex."

With this [illegible] in mind, he has rewritten the [illegible] chapter of Genesis thus:

And Eve [illegible] did eat of the apple. And having eaten, she knew that she had sinned.

"I will not be the only sinner," she said. "I Will Get Adam Into It, too."

"Take a bite," she said. "It is good."

"No, Eve," he replied with Dignity and Firmness. "It would be Wrong, and I Can't Do Wrong."

"But You Must Eat With Me," she insisted.

With a [illegible] World Have Turned A[illegible] him Around [illegible] him with Love[illegible]

But Adam wa[illegible] Resisted her Blandishm[illegible] Would Not Eat of the Ap[illegible]

For he Was [illegible] and Loved the Right [illegible] he Loved Her Who was his Wi[illegible]

Then her Swe[illegible] turned to Angry Threats [illegible] as a Rock, he refused.

Then Eve, being Stronger than Adam and made Still Stronger by her anger at his resistance, Threw Him to the Ground.

Holding him Prostate with ONE hand, she forced his Jaws apart with the other, and Pounded a piece of the Forbidden Fruit into his Throat.

But Adam was still True and Firm. Fainting with Exhaustion and horror at the Sin his Wife would have him Commit, he Refused to Swallow It.

Whereupon Eve Held his Nose and Made it Go Down.

"And ever since that day, up to the present moment," said Lysander John, "women have been cramming things down the throats of the men that they don't want.

"They may be Firm and Noble, like Adam, but no Adam is a match fr Eve.

Too Late for Hope

WORDS were of no avail. He knew it. His wife, Muriel, had arranged everything with cold-blooded care.

He crossed the room with elaborate unconcern, and at the door turned for the last time.

"It will seem like the good old bachelor days come back," he remarked, trying to speak jauntily, but his voice trembling. "I shall dine at the club. Good-bye, dear!"

Never a word spoke Muriel. She merely nodded coldly.

Dazed, the poor man groped his way blindly to the snuggery, his little den, which would never look the same again. Only two years since their marriage, and it had come to this. He was going—leaving Muriel.

Miserably he took a little silver box from the mantelpiece, and sadly eyed the contents.

"She gave me these when—when we were happy," he sobbed. "I might as well save them from the wreck."

Then, hurriedly lighting one of the cigarettes, he fled; for the sound of sweeping told him that Spring-cleaning had begun!

That Wicked Round

INTO the little village of Wuzzeville there came a circus, with brazen band, gaudy posters, mammoth elephants, superlative clowns and fiery, untamed lions.

The boys of the place were mad with excitement, and the young son of a notoriously close-fisted old farmer rushed up to his father and eagerly demanded the nimble quarter with which to view the show.

"What!" demanded the old skinflint.

"Please, father," came the meek and mild reply.

"Young man," answered the oldster sadly, "it was only last month that I let you go to the top o' t' hill to see the eclipse of the sun. My lad, do you want all your life to be one wicked round of gaiety?"

Then the boy got tired.

Fables of a Wise Dame

By DOROTHY DIX

ONCE upon a time there was a Man who was the proud Father of an interesting little Boy.

Now the Father was one of those Conscientious Men who take a serious View of a Parent's Responsibility, and as he was most anxious that his Son should not do any sidestepping from the Straight and Narrow Gauge Way he went aside and thus communed with himself.

"I do not desire," he reflected, "that my Son should burn up as much Time and Money as I did exploring the Wilds of Life, and while it is True that I had my share of Fun, I opine that I paid more than One Hundred Cents on the Dollar for it, and that it was not worth the Price.

"I apprehend, however, that while Virtue is its own Reward the Consciousness of Doing Right is not a Sufficiently Glittering Prize to attract the Youthful Fancy, so it's up to me to show my Son that if he wishes to enter the Oldest Inhabitant Class, and be quoted in the Papers as the Rip Van Winkle who remembers the Coldest Winters and the Hottest Summers, he must train on the Water Wagon with plenty of Plain Food and Hard Work."

Hunting a Shining Mark

Thereupon the Man took his Son by the Hand, and the started forth in search of a Shining Example that would teach the Little Boy that if he Did everything he Didn't Want to Do, and Cut out all that he Did Want to Do, he might reach a Doddering and Toothless Old Age where he would be the Champion Bore.

So the Father and Son wended their Way to the Common, where they soon perceived two Ancient Mariners sitting in the Sun, and the Father approached them and thus addressed them:

"Venerable Sirs," he said, "I perceive that you are Headliners in the Antique Class, and as I make no doubt that your Advanced State of age is due to a Correct and Well Spent Life, I entreat you to tear off a Bunch of your Experience so that my Son may emulate your Noble Example."

"If you desire Advice about how to Reach the Age Limit," replied one of the Hoary Dodos, "you have come to the Right Spot, for I am the Real Thing, and while I do not wish to Unduly Praise myself I feel bound to admit that the reason that I am the great Main Shine is because I have ever been a Model of all the Virtues.

Painting His Own Halo

"I've never tasted anything stronger than Church Lemonade, nor has Tobacco ever stained my Lips. I have lived on Health Food Messes that were good for my Digestion, and I have always gone to bed with the Chickens and Risen with the Milk Man, and devoted myself to Honest Toil. Likewise, when a Female made Goo-goo Eyes at me I fled down the Other Side of the Street.

"As a Result of this Exemplary Conduct, and of always observing the Rules of Health, I am still hobbling about while most of my Friends are tucked under the Daisies."

"Behold my Son, the rewards of a life of Self Denial and Industry," cried the Father to his son, and then he turned to the Other Old Gabfest, and begged him to add the Story of His Life to the Impressive Lesson they had just received.

"Alas!" replied the other Old Man, "after the beautiful Picture of a Noble Career we have just seen I am ashamed to exhibit my Tin Type, for I regret to say I am one of those who have Burned the Candle at Both Ends and in the Middle when things did not seem to be Lighting Up enough, and the Things I have done to all the Laws of Hygiene are a plenty.

"I have painted my Share of the Town a deep Vermilion Hue, and when I mounted the Temperance Platform it was because the Fizz had given out. Never had a Peacherino had to Flag me Down but once, and I grieve to admit that the only Manual Labor that has ever Appealed to my Taste has been Dealing the Pasteboards.

"I have also passed up the Humble Cereal in favor of Welsh Rarebit and Lobster Newburg, and while my Friends have prophesied that I would dig my Grave with my Teeth, you will observe that I am still on the Job, and not in it. I fear that I am not as Good an Example as my Aged Friend here, but I am just as much Alive and Three Years Older."

"Father," said the Little Boy, "what lesson do we learn from these Two Examples?"

"We learn," replied the Father, "that the Only Infallible Rule for Attaining a Hale Old Age is not to Die Young."

Moral: This fable teaches that most Rules of Conduct work both Ways.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

Old Lady—There is one thing I noticed particularly about that young man who calls to see you. He seems to have an inborn, instinctive respect for woman. He treats every woman as though she were a being from a higher sphere, to be approached only with the utmost delicacy and deference.

Granddaughter (sweet eighteen)—Yes, he's horribly bashful.

He was dining at a French restaurant, and while he was sipping his black coffee and firing five hundred glances to the minute at a girl in a fluffy pink and white dress, a stranger gracefully commandeered his overcoat. He had just reached the door when the owner tapped him on the shoulder.

"Pardon me, sir," he said, meekly, "but would you allow me to get another cigar from my pocket, in case I do not meet you again?"

One of the Greatest Detective Stories Ever Written

TODAY'S INSTALMENT.

Copyright, 1905, by Edward J. Clode.

"WELL, in the midst of my minor troubles, I must needs go and fall over head and ears in love—a regular bad case. She is the first woman I ever spoke two civil words to. We met at a picnic along the Corniche road, and she sat upon me so severely that I commenced to defend myself by showing that I was not such a surly brute as I looked. By Jove, in a week we were engaged.

The barrister indulged in a judicial frown.

"No. It's none of your silly, sentimental affairs in which people part and meet months afterward with polite inquiries after each other's health. I am not made that way; neither is Phil—Phyllis is her name, and she would go through fire and water for me. But she is rich, the only daughter of a Midland iron-master with tons of money. Her people are awfully nice, and I think they approve of me, though they have no idea that Phil and I are engaged."

His Opportunity

He paused to gulp down a strong decoction of brandy and soda. The difficult part of his story was coming.

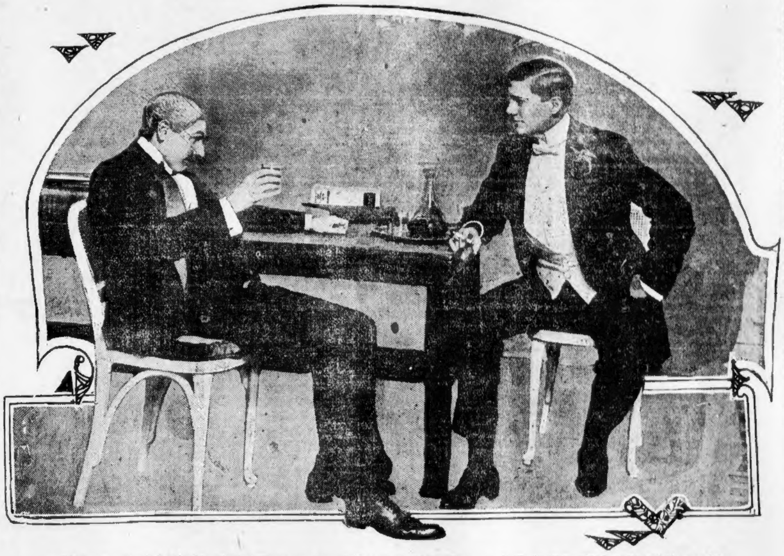
"You can quite believe," he continued, "that I did not want to ask her father, Sir William Browne—he was knighted by the late Queen for his distinguished municipal services—to give his daughter to a chap who hadn't a cent. He supposes I am fairly well off, living as I do, and I can't bear acting under false pretences. I hate it like poison, though in this world a man often has to do what he doesn't like. However, this time I determined to be straight and above board. It was a very odd fact, but I just wanted £3,000 to enable me to make a move which, I tell you, ought to result in a very fair sum of money, sufficient, at any rate, to render it a reasonable proposition for Phil and me to get married."

Claude was an appreciative listener. These love stories of real life are often so much more dramatic than the fictions of the novel or the stage.

"The opportunity came, to my mind, in this big tournament. I had no difficulty of getting odds of six or seven to one to far more than I was able to pay if I lost. Phil came into the scheme with me—she knows all about me, you know—and we both regarded it as a certainty. Then the collapse came. She wanted to get the money from her mother to enable me to pay up, but would not hear of it. I pretended that I could raise the wind some other way. The fact is I was wild with myself and with my luck generally. Then there was the disgrace of failing to settle on Monday, combined with the general excitement of that dream and a fearfully disturbed night. To make a long story short, I thought the best thing to do was to try a final plunge, and if it failed, to quit. I even took steps to make Phil believe I was a bad lot, so that she might not fret too much after me."

Mensmore's voice was a little unsteady in this last sentence. The barrister tried to cheer him by a little bit of raillery:

THE BARONET BEGS FOR NEWS OF HIS WIFE'S FATE



"And now, Claude," said Sir Charles, "have you any further news concerning my wife?" "I have none," answered the barrister.
(Posed by William P. Carleton (Bruce) and Alexander Clarke (Dyke), of "The Wall Street Girl" Company.)

A Letter

"I hope you have not succeeded too well?" he laughed.

"Oh, it is all right now. I mean that I left her some papers which would bring things to her knowledge that, unexplained by me, would give any one a completely false impression."

The subject was evidently a painful one, so Bruce did not pursue it.

"About this speculation of yours," he said. "Are you sure it's all right, and that you will not lose your money?"

"It is as certain as any business can be. It is a matter I thoroughly understand, but I will tell you all about it. If you will pardon me a moment I will bring the papers, as I should like to have your advice, and it is early yet. You don't want to go to bed, I suppose?"

"Not for hours."

Mensmore rose, but before he reached the door a gentle tap heralded the appearance of the hall porter.

"There is a letter for the gentleman. Monsieur is not in his room. He is reported to be here, so I bring it."

Mensmore took the note, read it with a smile and growing flush, and handed it to the barrister, saying: "Under the circumstances I think you ought to see this. Isn't she a brick?"

The tiny missive read:

"Dearest One—You must forgive me, but we are both so miserable about that wretched money that I told mother everything. She likes you, and though she gave me a blowing up, she has promised to give me £500 tomorrow. We can never thank her sufficiently. Do come around and see me for a minute. I will be in the veranda until eleven. "Ever yours,

"PHYLLIS."

Claude returned the note.

A Lucky Chap

"Luck! You're the luckiest fellow in the South of France!" he said. "Why, here's the mother plotting with the daughter on your behalf. Sir William hasn't the ghost of a chance. Off you go to that blessed veranda."

When Mensmore had quitted the hotel, Bruce descended to the bureau to take up the threads of his neglected quest. The letter to Sydney H. Corbett was still unclaimed, and he thought he was justified in examining it. On the reverse of the envelope was the embossed stamp of an electric lighting company, so the contents were nothing more important than a bill.

"Great news," he said. "I squared everything with Lady Browne. Told her I was only chaffing Phil about the five hundred, because she spoiled my aim by shrieking out. Sir William has chartered a steam yacht to go for a three weeks' cruise along the Gulf of Genoa and the Italian coast. They have put him up to ask me in the morning to join the party. Great Scott! what a night I'm having."

They parted soon afterwards, and next morning Bruce was informed that his friend had gone out early, leaving word that he had been summoned to breakfast at the Grand Hotel, where Sir William Browne was staying.

During the afternoon Mensmore came to him like a whirlwind. "We're off today," he said. "By the way, where shall I find you in London?"

The barrister gave him his address, and Mensmore, handing him a card, said, "My permanent address is given here, the Orleans Club, St. James'. But I will look you up first. I shall be in town in March. And you?"

"Oh, I shall be home much sooner. Good-bye, and don't let your good luck spoil you."

"No fear! Wait until you know Phyllis. She would keep any fellow all right once he got his chance, as I have done. Good-bye, and—and—God bless you!"

During the next three days Bruce devoted himself sedulously to the search for Corbett. He inquired in every possible and impossible place, but the man had utterly vanished.

Nor did he come to claim his letter at the Hotel du Cercle. It remained stuck on the baize-covered board until it was covered with dust, and the clerk at the bereau had grown weary of watching people who scrutinized the receptacle for their correspondence.

Others came and asked for Corbett—sharp-featured men with imperials and long mustaches—the interest taken in the man was great, but unrequited. He never appeared.

At last, the season ended, the hotel was closed, and the mysterious letter was shot into the dustbin.

Theories

BRUCE announced his departure from Monte Carlo by a telegram to his valet.

Nevertheless he did not expect to find that useful adjunct to his small household—Smith and his wife comprised the barrister's menage—standing on the platform at Charing Cross when the mail train from the Continent steamed into the station.

Smith, who had his doubts about this suden trip to the Riviera, was relieved when he saw his master was alone. "Sir Charles Dyke called this afternoon, sir," he explained. "I told Sir Charles about your wife, sir, and he is very anxious that you should dine with him tonight. You can dress at Portman Square, and if I come with you"——

"Yes; I understand. Bundle everything into a four-wheeler."

"Sir Charles thought you might come, sir, so he sent his carriage."

London looked dull but familiar as they rolled across Leicester square and up Regent street. Your true Cockney knows that he is out of his latitude when the sky is blue overhead. Let him hear the tinkle of the hansoms' bells through a dim, fog-laden atmosphere, and he knows where he is. There is but one London, and Cockneydom is the order of Melchisedek. Claude's heart was glad within him to be home again, even though the band was just gathering in the Casino gardens, and the lights of Monaco were beginning to gleam over the moon-lit expanse of the Mediterranean.

The Missing Maid

At Wensley House the traveler was warmly welcomed by the baronet, who seemed to have somewhat recovered his health and spirits.

Nevertheless, Bruce was distressed to note the ineffaceable signs of the suffering Sir Charles Dyke had undergone since the disappearance of his wife. He had aged quite ten years in appearance. Deep lines of sorrowful thought had indented his brow, his face was thinner, his eyes had acquired a wistful look; his air was that of a man whose theory of life had been forcibly reversed.

At first both men fought shy of the topic uppermost in their minds, but the after dinner cigar brought the question to Dyke's lips.

"And now, Claude, have you any further news concerning my wife's death?"

The barrister noted the struggle before the final word came. The husband had, then, resigned all hope.

"I have none," he answered. "That is to say, I have nothing definite. I promised to tell you everything I did, so I will keep my promise, but you will, of course, differentiate between facts and theories?"

The baronet nodded an agreement.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Househo d Suggestions

When you are preparing the copper for washing add one teaspoonful of borax to the cold water. When it has boiled you will find you only require half the quantity of soap. Then, when your white clothes are ready to boil, add one teaspoonful of borax to the water, and you will have the clothes beautiful and white.

The most stubborn glass stopper can be removed from a bottle by inserting the stopper in the crack of a floor as tightly as you can on the stopper without breaking it, and then gently twist the bottle back and forth until it is loosened. Patience may be necessary, but the plan is bound to succeed.

If the alarm clock is too loud for the peace of the housesold, slip an elastic band around the bell to diminish the noise; the wider the band the stronger the suppression, and a few experiments will demonstrate just what width is most desirable.

For a home-made sweet, shell English walnuts, or any other nuts preferred, lay the kernels on waxed paper; soften sweet chocolate in a double boiler and pour this over the kernels. This is delicious, easily made and inexpensive.

When sharpening a lead pencil, first stick the knife blade through a slip of paper. This paper acts as a guard on the knife and prevents the lead dust from soiling the fingers.

To clean windows quickly dip a cloth in clear warm water, and with it wash over the entire window, wiping it quickly. Then go over each window with a tiny sponge damped with spirit, afterward polishing with a linen cloth or tissue paper. If the window frame needs washing as well as the glass, that should be attended to first.

Picture glass should not be washed. To remove spots rub them with a damp cloth wrung out in water to which a little ammonia has been added. Take special care that no water runs under the frame, and so on to the picture.

To trap slugs, place a teacup, or any small pot or tin, three-parts full of milk, in the soil, so that the slugs can get into it. They are as fond of milk as leeches are of blood, and they will drink until they fall in and get drowned.

Milady's Toilet Table

By Mme. D'MILLE

"Dull and lifeless hair makes a woman look older than she should. Dry shampooing makes the hair bright, fluffy and clean—full of life and lustre. Put four ounces of powdered orris root in a fruit jar and mix it well with an original package of therox. Sprinkle a teaspoonful of the mixture on the head once a week and brush it out thoroughly. Therox makes hair grow when everything else fails.

"The natural beauty of a person's face is marred by thin and straggly eyebrows and lashes. Rubbing gently with plain pyroxin will induce them to grow long, thick and silky. The eyebrows should be brushed daily to train them to grow into an arch.

"Instead of powder and paint, use a simple complexion lotion made at home by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. Gently rub over the face in the morning and all day your skin will be as clear, soft and satiny as a baby's—with no dark or muddy discolorations.

"Delatone is equal to the electric needle for the removal of superfluous hair, is positively painless and not nearly so expensive. Just mix a little delatone with water; cover the wild hairs with this paste; let it remain two minutes; then wash the skin and the hairs will be gone."

Don't scratch! use CADUM

Cadum has effected remarkable cures in many skin affections. A single application often stops the itching at once. It has brought nights of peaceful sleep and rest to those who have endured agonies. Trial box 10c. Large box 25c.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the New Drug.

An eminent skin specialist recently discovered a new drug, othine—double strength, which is so uniformly successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Houghton & Dutton Drug Co., Riker-Jaynes Drug Co., under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first night's use will show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. It is absolutely harmless and cannot injure the most tender skin.

Be sure to ask Houghton & Dutton Drug Co., Riker-Jaynes Drug Co., for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money back guarantee.

To stop a headache in one minute get 25 cents worth of yellow bollick and apply externally.

HOW TO HAVE EYES THAT FASCINATE

Famous Professor of Chemistry Offers Free, Secret How to Have Strong, Healthy, Beautiful Eyes.

Many With Weak Eyes Can Throw Away Their Glasses.

EYELASHES AND EYEBROWS Can Also Be Made Beautiful

Without beautiful eyes, no one is really beautiful, while even a homely face is made attractive by eyes that please or appear forceful.

Without strong eyes no one can enjoy life to the utmost. Those whose eyes are weak and who have to wear glasses are greatly handicapped in life's race.

Through the wonderful discovery and free advice of a famous Professor of Chemistry at an English University, you may have eyes as radiant as the Evening Star—eyes that attract and fascinate—eyes that have the power to influence others—eyes that people call wonderful.

Better still, Prof. Smith's scientific discovery enables many with weak eyes to throw their glasses away and make their vision stronger and more capable. Neither operation nor dangerous drugs are necessary.

This secret will also enable you to secure long, silky eyelashes and thick, well-arched eyebrows, which are to a beautiful eye what a fine setting is to a brilliant diamond.

In addition, this remarkable discovery makes weak eyes strong and quickly overcomes smarting effects of wind, dust and sun, besides cleaning the eyes of "bloodshot" and yellow sear. If you wish to make your eyes bright, healthy and beautiful, write today, enclosing 2 cents in stamps for reply (please state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss) and address your letter to Prof. A. P. Smith Dept., 110 Delta st., Providence, R. I., and you will receive the secret free.

There Are Forty-One Democrats in the House of Representatives Who May Not Want to Go Back Again.

And We Advise Them Not to Try. They Are the Democrats Who Voted Yesterday, OVER THE VETO OF A DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR, to Hand the Trolley Lines of Massachusetts Over to the Steam Railroads. The One Hope of the Democratic Party in This Commonwealth Lies Today in Fourteen Democratic Senators.

The forty-one so-called Democratic legislators who voted yesterday for Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan's Western Trolley Merger bill—combining with a sufficient number of Republicans to pass the Trolley Merger over the veto of a Democratic Governor—may have been prouder of their victory yesterday afternoon and last night than they were this morning. THEY CERTAINLY FELT BETTER YESTERDAY THAN, SUPPOSING THEY INTEND TO STAND FOR RE-ELECTION, THEY CAN POSSIBLY FEEL NEXT ELECTION DAY.

The New Haven Railroad wants to own—in the open now—all the trolley lines of Western Massachusetts. This was the proposition before the Legislature and the Governor.

To get the PROFITABLE trolley lines of the West in one bundle, the New Haven Railroad, its managers SAY, is willing to build trolley lines through territory which, we are told, would not pay for the poles of a wireless telegraph system. It will have to maintain these impossible trolley lines, IF it builds them, with the nickels and the dimes of Springfield and Worcester.

The law of Massachusetts FORBIDS the ownership of trolley lines by steam railroad companies. The policy of the Commonwealth forbids it. The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has passed upon it.

The PEOPLE of the Commonwealth have disposed of this question whenever they have had the opportunity.

A REPUBLICAN Governor, Curtis Guild, Jr., was the first man in high political station to cry out against this form of monopoly. The people of Massachusetts rewarded Curtis Guild again and again. Today his Republican followers look upon him as the best among them to make a POPULAR race for the Senatorship.

In like manner a DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR, Eugene Noble Foss, has taken his stand against a trolley-railroad monopoly. And in like manner, we venture the prophesy, the people of Massachusetts will commend the DEMOCRATIC Governor brave enough to fight FOR THEM against the greediness of High Finance.

The passing of the Western Trolley Merger bill will be an act of LEGISLATIVE infamy. Unless it is blocked in the Massachusetts Senate, it will return to haunt every Democrat and every Progressive Republican who has had a hand in it.

What said the Governor, in the veto message which the House has overridden like petulant schoolboys kept after school? The GOVERNOR SAID:

> The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, relying on the fact that the Board of Railroad Commissioners was powerless to enforce its opinion, proceeded to enlarge its field of activity among street railways.
>
> The policy of this corporation has been, in recent years, one of open defiance to the letter of our laws and the spirit of our institutions.
>
> Relying on the fact that it had under the laws of a neighboring State a broad charter, clothing it with powers vastly greater than we have considered safe or proper for a railroad corporation, it has undertaken to do in this State acts which were prohibited by our laws; and, utterly regardless of public opinion and the objections of boards and public officers, it has been stayed only by an appeal to our court of last resort.
>
> It is into SUCH hands that we are asked to place the control of our ONLY REMAINING INDEPENDENT SYSTEM OF TRANSPORTATION.
>
> I am confident that this act received the approval of the Legislature only because of the reasonable demands of a part of the public in the western section of the Commonwealth for the increased transportation facilities which are PROMISED.
>
> IF THESE PROMISES SHOULD BE KEPT NO BETTER THAN SOME OF THE OTHER PROMISES WHICH HAVE BEEN MADE TO THE PUBLIC BY THIS CORPORATION, THEY WOULD BE THE VICTIMS OF BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT.

The people of Massachusetts know that the Governor is RIGHT about the New Haven Railroad, and RIGHT ABOUT THE PROMISES of the New Haven Railroad.

Especially will the stand of Governor Foss be approved BY THE DEMOCRATS AND INDEPENDENTS OF MASSACHUSETTS.

To the wisdom of these Democrats of Massachusetts the AMERICAN entrusts the political futures of the forty-one Massachusetts Democrats who thought they were big and brave and smart yesterday when they chose to forget all that their party in State and Nation has been saying, year after year and in campaign after campaign, and voted against a Democratic veto and in favor of the Western Trolley Merger.

AND WHAT ABOUT THE MASSACHUSETTS SENATE?

There are forty State Senators.

Of those forty State Senators, fourteen were ELECTED as Democrats.

The Western Trolley Merger—which may mean a State-wide merger—cannot be passed over the veto of the Governor EXCEPT BY A TWO-THIRDS VOTE OF THE SENATE.

The duty of the fourteen Democrats in the Massachusetts Senate is as plain as the dome on the State House.

And in this really grave political crisis THE DEMOCRATS OF MASSACHUSETTS EXPECT EVERY DEMOCRATIC SENATOR TO DO HIS DUTY.

1. Whang! A dull, sickening thud. Hero Claude Roosevelt has smitten Desperate Desmond Taft a mighty swat in the primaries.

The beautiful Rosamond Nomination is in his power. "Curses! But I will get her yet!" exclaims Desperate Taft.

2. "Guard Rosamond Nomination, men," says Claude Roosevelt. "Aye, aye, sir!" reply Arkansas, Florida, Alabama and Georgia. Our hero returns to Oyster Bay.

3. "Let us visit the Coliseum and see where our seats are located," says Ark., Ala., Fla. and Ga. No sooner said than done.

4. "Ha, ha!" laughs Desperate Taft. Just as Ark., Ala., Fla. and Ga. reached the Coliseum the door was flung open and the dreaded steam roller flattened 'em. The four didn't even get a glimpse of the decorations.

5. On goes the steam roller. Desperate Taft chauffeurs it over Indiana. From Oyster Bay dashes Claude Roosevelt on a special train. "More speed," shouts Gomgotz Flinn, the Wild Man, to Claude. Goppie, the elephant, is between the roller and the engine. Poor Goppie! Don't fail to follow Rosamond's fate in tomorrow's paper.

The Great Kaleidoscope Overhead

Opening of the Summer Night Spectacle That Nature Offers Free to All

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

WHEN I am tired, worried, worn out, and uninspired by the least thought of ambition, I go out, if the evening is serene, and pause long under the stars. I get rest for the head, and stay staring at the spectacle above me with more interest and wonder than a child experiences at an exhibition of motion pictures.

The heavens are the most marvellous of all kaleidoscopes.

That word is not heard much nowadays, and the little instrument for which it stands is seldom seen. When I was a boy almost every household had one. The derivation of the name from three Greek words—KALOS, "beautiful," EIDOS "an appearance," and SKOPEO, "I view"—reveals its nature, and tells its story.

Three strips of black glass, two inches wide and six or eight long, are set edge to edge, lengthwise, making a triangular enclosure. They are then fixed in a round pasteboard tube, with a peephole at one end, and a pair of transparent glass circles, placed a quarter of an inch apart at the outer end. The outside circle is of ground glass. The space between these circles is partly filled with broken bits of varicolored glass, which tumble about among one another as the instrument is turned on its horizontal axis.

Reflects Many Images

The polished sides of the long triangle reflect multiplied images of the bits of glass when the kaleidoscope is held with its outer end toward a bright light, and marvellously beautiful combinations of color and exquisite forms are revealed to the eye looking through the peephole. As the instrument is turned the bits of glass fall continually into new shapes, so pleasing and surprising that they often call forth cries of admiration.

It is hardly possible to give a child a more entertaining, and at the same time useful, toy than a kaleidoscope, and it requires very little skill to make one. It is said that makers of artistic designs sometimes employ kaleidoscopes to stimulate their invention, and suggest novel combinations.

To the discerning eye the starry heavens are a gigantic kaleidoscope. But we, whose lives are but a glimpse, see only one of its infinite combinations. All is in motion, but all seems at rest. The three score years and ten of a man's life afford him but a single peep into the wonder tube of the universe. We know that it is endlessly turning, but we should need to live and watch for a million years in order to see its many-hued and infinitely diverse stars falling in ceaseless showers from one combination to another, and the constellations rolling from form to form like clouds or sparks.

Here the marvellous power of the imagination, guided by science, aids us. We can look both backward and forward in time and see the heavens as they have been and as they will be.

Sights of the Sky

When you look at the sky tonight you will perceive low in the West, Leo, the Lion, with its principal stars forming the figure of a sickle. High overhead you will catch sight of the "Big Dipper," in Ursa Major. No name could be more truly descriptive of the figure shaped by its seven stars. Just in the South, well above the horizon, shines the beautiful white star Spica, which would be a far grander sun than ours if we could approach near to it. Spica is surrounded with many stars which the ancients imagined to resemble the figure of a white-robed maiden, Virgo, and they had a legend that Virgo represented the goddess of justice, fled from the earth, where she reigned in the golden age, and finding refuge in heaven, where alone justice now rules.

Between the Dipper and Virgo, but eastward of a line joining them, glows the magnificent Arcturus, a star which turns red when seen through the mists of the horizon, and which was worshipped for ages in less enlightened times. Arcturus is the chief of another constellation called Bootes, or the "Bear Driver," because he seems to chase the huge bear, Ursa Major, round the pole. East of Bootes is a splendid circlet of stars named the Northern Crown, or Ariadne's Diadem. It is a constellation whose mythological history runs away back to the expedition of Jason in search of the golden fleece. You will find not the slightest difficulty in recognizing it. Below the Crown in the northeast is the constellation Hercules, and below that again Apollo's Lyre, adorned with one of the most beautiful of all the stars, the diamond bright Vega, or Alpha Lyrae. Half round the pole, between Ursa Major, Hercules and the Lyre coils the great dragon, Draco, a figure that stirred the imagination of the ancients to its depths and gave rise to many legends that will never disappear from literature. Low in the northeast, rising with the Milky Way, you will see the shapely form of the Northern Cross in the constellation Cygnus.

Such is the night sky of June. It is a single, brief glance into the kaleidoscope of the universe. Now, call science and imagination to your aid, and you can represent to yourself the revolution that it has undergone, and will undergo in the future. Not one of the splendid constellations which we now admire will remain a few hundred thousand years hence. Apollo's Lyre will dissolve, and men will no longer admire the intertwining rays of its stars, which now seem the glitter of silver strings, trembling with the music of the spheres. The Big Dipper will flatten out as if the millstone of the ages were rolling over it. Draco will unwind his coils, and flit away like a wisp of mist. The Crown will fall apart and all its gems will be scattered. Arcturus will fly away from Bootes, and the whole constellation will drift into some other shape. The virgin goddess of justice will flee again, as if an iron age had dawned in the heavens. And the great Lion, which has looked down, apparently unchanged, upon the whole course of known history, measured by its petty centuries, will vanish like the vision of a dreamer.

Constellations of the Future

But there will be constellations in the far future, as there have always been constellations. Many of them may be more beautiful and wonderful than those that now exist. The possibilities of this vast kaleidoscope are illimitable and it rolls forever. The astronomer can, even now, foretell some of the shapes that will be formed by the stars in future eons, for he has measured the speed and ascertained the directions in which many of them are traveling, at a velocity which sometimes amounts to hundreds of miles in a second.

Can anything afford a better proof of the immensity of the universe and the insignificance of the earth? Let us not think that these remote things do not concern us. Everything concerns us, because there is something in us which transcends both time and space.

The Street Car Strike Calls For Arbitration

If It Is Not Done at Once Voluntarily a Law for COMPULSORY ARBITRATION SHOULD BE PASSED BY THE PRESENT LEGISLATURE.

Before the strike of the employes of the Boston Elevated Railway Company was declared the AMERICAN urged with as much earnestness as could be put into words that the men and the management of the road GET TOGETHER and settle their differences in some way so that the innocent public would not be compelled to suffer.

Now that the strike is on, and the PUBLIC IS THE GREATEST SUFFERER, the AMERICAN again urges a speedy settlement of the trouble.

The State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration stands ready to use its powers in bringing the controversy to a close. The members of the union have declared that they WANT TO SETTLE THE TROUBLE BY ARBITRATION.

General William A. Bancroft, president of the Elevated Company, has refused to meet a delegation from the union, although he has conferred with the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration. This board has reported that nothing definite has been accomplished.

The meeting of the strikers yesterday at Faneuil Hall showed that a large proportion of the employes of the company have become members of the union. The right of the men to organize for their own protection should not be questioned.

The right sort of organization and co-operation is today the keynote of business success.

While the men have the right to organize, and the company has the legal right to hire whom it pleases, both the men and the company OWE SOMETHING TO THE PUBLIC that pays them, and the public WANTS THIS CONTROVERSY SETTLED NOW.

The AMERICAN takes this occasion to call the attention of the public that the Legislature is in session and THAT IT IS NOT TOO LATE TO PASS A COMPULSORY ARBITRATION LAW FOR SUCH TROUBLES AS CONFRONT BOSTON AT THIS TIME.

THIS IS NO TIME FOR STUBBORNNESS ON THE PART OF THE BOSTON ELEVATED COMPANY OR ON THE PART OF THE STRIKERS.

THE SPEEDY SETTLEMENT OF THE STRIKE IS VITAL TO THE BUSINESS INTERESTS OF BOSTON. EITHER SETTLE THE STRIKE AT ONCE OR PASS A LAW THAT COMPELS SETTLEMENT BY ARBITRATION.

New Hampshire Takes Up "Votes for Women"

The Constitutional Convention, It Is Expected, Will Decide for the Second Time to Give Women What Justly Belongs to Them.

The New Hampshire constitutional convention is now in session, taking cognizance of various subjects that are of deep interest to the people of the Granite State.

Among the subjects that will be seriously discussed is that of so amending the Constitution of the State as to provide for the right of women to vote.

New Hampshire, one of the oldest States of the Union, is noted for its progressive ideas. The State has shown this in politics and in other realms of activity. From this picturesque Commonwealth have sprung men and women who have stamped themselves on the pages of our country's history.

The people of New Hampshire are alert, acute, cool and calm. But they are not slow. They have not the reputation of being behind the times.

The question of giving women equal rights in the matter of suffrage is now before them. This is not a new thing in New Hampshire. It has been discussed in that State since 1868.

Practically all of the men who have given the matter any thought are in favor of granting to women THAT WHICH BELONGS TO THEM—equal suffrage. No one attempts any longer to make an argument against the RIGHT of women to vote and to hold office.

The only question worthy of consideration in this connection at this time is whether women want this right. In New Hampshire, where the matter has been considered for so many years, the women not only WANT equal suffrage but they are CAPABLE OF TAKING ADVANTAGE OF THE PRIVILEGE.

Colorado and California have given women their rights in this connection. From California a woman will come to Chicago as a delegate to the Republican national convention. In a few years there will be many women delegates to all of the national conventions.

New Hampshire has a chance to lead all the States east of the Mississippi in granting women her rights. The constitutional convention in New Hampshire ten years ago advocated equal rights for women. There were 14,162 voters in the State who believed the women should vote, but the proposed amendment to the Constitution was lost by about 7,500 votes.

But the people have advanced in ten years—especially have they gone forward regarding the equal rights of women.

The eyes of the whole country will be on New Hampshire's constitutional convention. It is generally believed that this State will maintain her enviable reputation for progressiveness, and this would mean that an amendment would be tacked on their Constitution granting women the right of suffrage.

Every delegate to the Constitutional Convention, whether he is himself a believer in suffrage for women or not, should in fairness and justice vote to submit the question to the voters themselves.
